LLOYD GEORGE RENEWS FIGHT ON M'DONALD

Says Head of Laborites Wasted Time Upon Naval Parley.

RESULTS INADEQUATE FOR EFFORT, IS VIEW

Hope for New Agreement Between France and Italy Is Held Brighter.

London, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—David Lloyd George, the Liberal leader, today turned his verbal artillery once more against the Labor government, charging that Ramsay MacDonald spent altogether too much time in negotiation of the London naval conference, which might well have been left to some other member of the ministry.

His latest onslaught, which set political observers to asking themselves how much longer the Labor-Liberal combination could last, was in the form of a statement to the press in connection with a controversy between Lloyd George and Vernon Hartshorn, lord privy seal, some of whose statistics, in connection with government unemployment relief, the Liberal head has challenged.

"The prime minister," said Lloyd George, "spent the first half of his term of office negotiating the naval agreement which could well have been left, like its more far-reaching predecessor, the Washington naval agreement, to the foreign secretary or the first lord of the admiralty.

Sees Main Problem Dropped.

"Neither the task, nor its results, have justified his practical abandonment, for nine months, of control of the principal item in the program upon which his party was elected."

This last was interpreted as a reference to the unemployment problem.

MacDonald is now devoting all his energies, to the Indian round table conference, Lloyd George continued. Conceding the necessity of this concentration of attention, he asks whether there is not some other official of high authority in the government who could control the activities of the minor ministers in dealing with unemployment.

Rome, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Prospects for a naval agreement between France and Italy are "a bit more optimistic than at any time since the London conference," a foreign office spokesman told a correspondent of the Associated Press today.

Prospects Held Brighter.

The present "naval holiday," accepted by the two countries last summer, expires in five days. The government representative declined to make any statement as to Italy's plans for construction, if an agreement is not reached by December 31, but there was a general impression here that laying down of any new ships is unlikely for the time being.

Negotiations between Italy and France, halted several times, are again going on and it is considered just possible they may reach a definite stage by the time of the meeting of the council of the League of Nations on January 19.

The recent visit here of Robert L. Craigie, British naval expert and foreign office representative, created a hope of drawing the two countries together, along the lines of compromise proposals. The present negotiations have not yet reached the stage of actual discussion of the number and tonnage of ships to be allotted each country, but in diplomatic circles it is felt the prospects for an agreement are much brighter than at any time in recent months.

Man Dies Who Served With Sherman's Army

Monroe, Wis., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Capt. Nathaniel B. Treat, 91, believed to be the last surviving officer of Gen. Sherman's staff during the famous Civil War march to the sea, died today.

Hoover Would Aid Harding Ceremony

Will Accept Invitation to Dedication in Ohio if Tendered.

(Associated Press.)

The White House said last night President Hoover would participate in dedicating the Marion, Ohio, memorial to Warren G. Harding if he is invited.

Plans for dedicating the memorial as the home of the late President have been held up for a long period and no date for the ceremony has yet been set.

It was said at the White House, however, that if the President is asked to participate when the plans are completed he will do so. Mr. Harding became President in 1921 and died in 1923. He appointed Mr. Hoover Secretary of Commerce at the beginning of his term.

Miss Doherty's Debut Is Dazzling Function

Underwood & Underwood.

Socially Elect at Most Pretentious Debut Party in Recent Years.

A steady downpour of rain last night failed to dampen the most pretentious social event Washington has seen in many seasons—the debut of Miss Helen Eames Doherty at the Mayflower Hotel.

Promptly at 9 o'clock the first of approximately 1,000 guests began to arrive at the awninged doors of the hotel. Vice President Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann and Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley appeared, followed by ambassadors, ministers, senators and hundreds of other Government officials. A special train brought many of New York's society leaders, and by 10 o'clock the street in front of the hotel was crowded with a steady stream of limousines and taxicabs bearing those whose names dot the social registers

VIRGINIA DISMISSES ABELL, GRID COACH

Asks for Resignation After Second Poor Season, Despite 3-Year Contract.

SUCCESSOR IS SOUGHT

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 26.—Earl C. Abell, head football coach at the University of Virginia, has been asked to resign, and will terminate his duties here, although no official statement to that effect has come from athletic authorities at the institution.

James G. Driver, director of athletics, could not be located today. Coach Abell refused to give out any statement. He had planned, he said, to attend a meeting of the National Football Coaches Association in New York Monday, to give a report as trustee on the third district, which is composed of Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and the District of Columbia.

It was learned that a meeting of the athletic council was held at the university Saturday, and that following the session the coaching committee held a conference with Abell which lasted well into Sunday morning. Concessions are said to have

LOS ANGELES TO GO ON PANAMA FLIGHT

HELD IN GOOD CONDITION

The Navy dirigible Los Angeles, which has established a record for continuous service, is now being prepared for a 5,000-mile trip to Panama and back to participate in a war problem in defense of the canal, Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, announced late yesterday.

The dirigible is now undergoing a complete overhauling at Lakehurst and will commence test flights on January 15. Her nose will be headed toward the Canal Zone at the first favorable opportunity after February 2. The war problem will be staged from February 17 to 21.

At Panama the Los Angeles will be moored to the U. S. S. Patoka, naval oiler equipped with a Mobile mooring mast. Upon completion of the war problem it is planned for the Patoka to return to St. Joseph's Bay, Fla., to receive the airship, although it may base at Parris Island.

The Los Angeles, now over 6 years old, was inspected during the spring of 1930 by the Navy's Board of Inspection and Survey and after a se-

HOUSE LINE-UP FOUND FACTOR IN JUDGESHIP

Would Take Groner's Place; Latter May Be Named to Appeals Court Here.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The close line-up in the next House of Represenattives—Republicans, 218; Democrats, 216; Farmer-Labor, 1—may cost Representative Menalcus Lankford, of Norfolk, Va., a desirable place on the Federal bench, it appeared yesterday.

Mr. Lankford one of the few Republicans in the Solid South who squeezed through in the November election, has long been held ripe for a Federal judgeship.

So when it was announced the other day that President Hoover was about to appoint Federal Judge D. Lawrence Groner, of the Eastern District of Virginia, to a vacancy in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, the political rail birds in Norfolk promptly suggested Mr. Lankford as Judge Groner's successor.

Kvale Proving to Be Problem.

Under ordinary circumstances, their "nomination" might be a good one. But the circumstances are not ordinary. What would the Republican leaders in the House say to such an appointment? On the basis of the last election, the Republicans will have a certain majority of only one in the next Congress, because Representative Kvale, the Farmer-Laborite from Minnesota, hasn't yet announced which of the big parties he will vote with.

Suppose now that Mr. Lankford should be nominated to the Federal bench, and suppose further that a Democrat should be elected to the House in his place (and there is reason to believe that one would be), where would that leave the Republicans? It would leave them without their certain majority one, and absolutely at the mercy of Mr. Kvale.

Of course, as has frequently been pointed out, a lot may happen before the next Congress convenes: A few deaths, for example, might change the present standing.

Awesome Prospect Faced.

In any event, the prospect of losing a member through judgeship appointment is an awesome one for the Republican leaders.

As for Mr. Lankford himself, he has made no move that would indicate that he is a candidate for Judge Groner's place, nor is it likely that he will make a move in the future.

From an economic standpoint, the judgeship is far more desirable than a seat in the House. It is a life-time job, whereas a seat in the House is a job for which one must campaign every two years.

Both jobs pay the same—$10,000 a year—but in the case of a House salary, a large part of that must go toward campaign expenses.

Cash Payment Plan For Veterans Opposed

(Associated Press.)

Opposition to the proposal of Representative Garner (Democrat), Texas, for optional cash payments on veterans' compensation certificates, was expressed yesterday by Chairman Hawley, of the House ways and means committee.

"I am standing by the American Legion convention in Boston," Hawley said. "The matter was before the convention there and the legion declined to take action on it. We've been working with the legion all the way through and so far it has presented nothing of this nature."

POWER LEADER EXPLAINS MOVE IN DISMISSALS

Chairman Says McNinch and Williamson Had Not Taken Oath.

SUPPORT PROMISED ON RECONSIDERATION

Legality of Proposed Motion Challenged by Chiefs of Administration.

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Smith, of the Power Commission, said yesterday the dismissal of three of its employes had been decided upon by a quorum of the commission members and Frank R. McNinch, of North Carolina, and Ralph B. Williamson, of Washington, had not been consulted because they had not taken the oath of office.

Mr. Smith's explanation came after Mr. McNinch had telegraphed friends here that he had not been consulted about the dismissals which have brought a demand from a group of Republican independents that the confirmations of the commission appointments be reconsidered by the Senate.

The discharge of Charles A. Russell, Frank E. Bonner and William V. King was the first official act of Smith, Marcel Garsaud and Claude L. Draper after they took the oath.

Two Not Members.

The five commissioners, prior to swearing in the three, however, had agreed that no appointments would be made until all had been seated and had held their first meeting, Mr. Smith said. He added that the three had power to act and since Mr. McNinch and Mr. Williamson had not taken the oath, they were not members.

Mr. McNinch, in his telegram, said he was surprised at the commission's action because he had left Washington with the understanding the power group would not be organized until after the first of the year.

He did not express his views toward either of the three discharged employes, but said he had not expected the commission to make any changes in personnel until all of its members had been sworn.

Senator Promises Motion.

Independent Republican and Democratic senators announced yesterday they had a promise from a senator who was eligible under Senate rules to make the reconsideration motion.

Meanwhile administration leaders challenged the legality of the proposal because the three commissioners in question have already taken the oath.

Senator Watson, the Republican leader, said if such a motion carried, the commissioners could fight it in the courts.

Another development yesterday was the announcement by Chairman Nye, of the Senate public lands committee, that if his committee orders an investigation of the Ralph S. Kelley charges of irregularities in the disposition of oil shale lands, he would employ Russell as an investigator.

Believes Action Automatic.

Yakima, Wash., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—R. B. Williamson, member of the new Federal Power Commission, said today he understood two commission employes reported in Washington as dismissed were actually automatically removed under the reorganization procedure.

Mr. Williamson assumed Solicitor Charles A. Russell and Chief Engineer William V. King automatically vacated their positions under an Attorney General's ruling which in effect only refuses reappointments until the full commission of five members meets in Washington next month.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

Fear is not only contagious but reaches our representatives. It affects the neighbors and has its reaction on the office holders. That will be the great difficulty with the Congress and with all the State legislatures. Something is the matter with the country and they will all feel an irresistible temptation to try to provide a remedy. That would be fine if they had any power. But only the people themselves have the power to work out of their difficulties which they can best do without legislative interference.

The trouble is that efforts will be made to save a situation by legislation when no legislation can save it. In general we may expect to see many proposals to increase expenditures of public money when high national and higher local taxes have been a great contributing factor to the present situation. When the country needs the courage and confidence that relief from high taxes would give, increasing appropriations only add to the discouragement. What a refreshing spectacle it would be if a little band of office holders would announce they were ready to risk defeat by resisting these unsound proposals. The whole country would rally to their support.

Parking Limitation Urged By Planning Commission

Erection of Garages and Provision of Space Under Federal Buildings Recommended in Annual Report to Hoover; Airport Advocated.

The gradual limitation of parking, particularly in the congested area of Washington, with the coincident erection of sufficient garages and the provision of parking spaces underneath the new Federal buildings, is recommended in the annual report of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, submitted yesterday to President Hoover. The commission also reiterates its recommendation for the establishment of a District airport on the site of the Washington-Hoover Field.

The Federal Government should lead the way in providing underground facilities, the commission contends. Neither the Department of Commerce nor the Bureau of Internal Revenue Buildings, newest of the Federal structures in the District, are so equipped, but the Municipal Center, which the District government is to begin next spring, is to have basement parking space.

While not going into details as to parking limitations, other than to include the comprehensive report of its expert, Dr. Miller McClintock, of Harvard University, previously made public, the commission makes it clear that no drastic limitations should be imposed until adequate facilities are

NORRIS VETOES THIRD PARTY; ASKS END OF ELECTORAL COLLEGE

Senator Sees No Hope of Success in Plan That Dewey Urges.

FORESEES CONTROL BY USUAL LEADERS

District Banker Subpenaed to Produce Books Relating to G. O. P. Funds.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Senator Norris has no intention of joining any third party and he is not a candidate for the Presidency, he told newspapermen yesterday in discussing the third party proposal of Prof. John Dewey, of Columbia University.

What he does intend turning his endeavors to, though, is a constitutional amendment abolishing the electoral college.

A third party, the Nebraskan said, would in time come to be just like the other parties, controlled by leaders and as the senator sees them, unresponsive to the people. By abolishing the electoral college, he said, independent presidential candidates could be put up just as independent governors are put up in the States now. Aside from their having a chance at the popular vote, the very fact that independents could be entered would influence the major parties to select good candidates, he said.

Dewey Plan Rejected.

He had a proposal to abolish the electoral college several years ago, he explained, but dropped it at the behest of women suffragists who said they were making such headway in some States that women were to be permitted to serve as electors.

Dewey's proposal met with an unsympathetic response among the Progressives as a whole. The failure of the Roosevelt and La Follette movements is still too fresh in their memory.

Norris was quite frankly skeptical over the ability of a third party to get anywhere. He pointed out that there was plenty of money behind Roosevelt and his candidacy was unsuccessful.

"It would take a political revolution to establish a new party now and win," he said. "Roosevelt tried it in 1912. He was backed by a great deal of money. Yet he failed. I doubt very much that a new party could be organized now and get anywhere by 1932."

He made it very plain that he intended to pursue his independent course, though, and said that, if the Republicans renominate Mr. Hoover in 1932 and the Democrats put up a candidate in accord with his views on water power, he will support him.

Finds McNinch Parallel.

Holding his ground that he is a Republican he called attention to the recent appointment of Frank R. McNinch to the Federal Power Commission. McNinch was appointed as a Democrat but, as Norris pointed out, McNinch bolted the Democratic presidential candidate in 1928.

"If he can do that and Mr. Hoover still considers him a Democrat, I don't see why I am not still a Republican," he said.

In the meantime, Col. Wade H. Cooper, president of the Commercial National Bank, who under subpena told the Nye committee of the $4,000 loan to Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican National Committee, has again been subpenaed to appear January 5 with all the records and information bearing on the Republican senatorial committee campaign fund and the $40,000 special fund on deposit at his bank.

Col. Cooper told the committee that he was in sympathy with their efforts to "drive from the temple all the money changers and all those who sought to buy a seat," but that he could not discuss his bank's accounts unless commanded to do so by subpena.

Hope to Link Higher-Ups.

It is no secret that the Progressives, through an inquiry into the sensa-

Levine Must Explain Ownership of Stock

New York Court Grants Subpena on Missing Securities.

New York, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Charles A. Levine, aviation enthusiast, who recently was held by Vienna police in a counterfeiting mix-up, which he subsequently explained away, faced new trouble today. A subpena was issued asking him to tell the district attorney how he came into possession of $21,900 worth of missing securities.

The Fidelity Deposit Co. of Maryland, an insurance concern in the financial district, asked to have Levine summoned for the inquiry, charging the stock, 100 shares of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., vanished while en route by messenger from one downtown house to another.

According to the summons, Levine pledged the missing stock at the Manufacturers Trust Co. as collateral for a loan last May. The Fidelity agent said he would subpena bank officials to tell the sum of the loan.

Levine's attorney declared his client would be able to explain his possession of the stock to the company's satisfaction.

17 HELD IN SCHEME DEFRAUDING CLERGY

CHURCHMAN IS INDICTED

New York, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Indictment on mail fraud charges of seventeen persons connected with a stock promotion scheme which allegedly defrauded elderly persons in all parts of the country of $1,250,000 over a four-year period was disclosed today by the United States attorney's office.

Among the subscriptions to stock of the Automotive Royalties Corporation were twenty clergymen, whose losses were placed at $150,000 by Assistant United States Attorney Tompkins.

Clark W. Parker, 68, a trustee of the Church of the Stranger, in New York, and his son, Wyman, were among those indicted and were described by Tompkins as the head of the promotion scheme. Many purchasers for stock in the company, which was represented as marketing a "marvelous automobile invention," were obtained through the efforts of the late Dr. Eugene Christian, vitamin food specialist, Tompkins revealed.

After Dr. Christian's death, Tompkins said, the elder Parker, whom he termed "the most prolific and persuasive letter writer" he had ever heard about, circularized 700 or more elderly persons who had sought Dr. Christian's advice on diet.

In addition to the letters, which, Tompkins said, urged the recipients to insure comfort in their old age by investing in the proffered securities, the promoters employed a force of traveling salesmen, who covered the Western part of the United States, Canada and Central America.

Among the clergymen listed were the Rev. Anthony Schaeffer, pastor of a Catholic Church at Clay Center, Kans.; the Rev. E. Zapf, Lutheran pastor, of Chicago, and the Rev. M. F. Cowle, of Darby, Pa.

Stock in the Automotive Royalties Corporation was placed on sale in 1926. Tompkins said Mr. Shaffer invested $17,000 in Parker's projects on representations of salesmen that the investment might enable him to help

FORGED PASSPORTS CHARGED TO SOVIET

FILES ALSO AID RUSSIA

(Associated Press.)

The use of forged American passports by members of the Soviet Russian secret service was described in a report made public yesterday by Chairman Fish, of the House Communist investigating committee.

The report was made by G. Agabekoff, formerly an operative of the Ogpu, Soviet secret police, now living in Paris.

"Almost all of the representatives of the Third Internationale travel abroad with American passports, which give them entrance into all countries and permit them to carry on communistic work without arousing suspicion," he said.

The Russian said a special office was maintained to fabricate all sorts of documents, particularly passports and false certificates. In addition, he said, voluminous files of English and American documents were kept in Moscow for use by the secret police.

"English diplomats unwittingly rendered valuable service to the Soviet government through their detailed reports to the foreign office," Agabekoff said. He added reports of the English envoy to Washington and the activities of the American Government were "a permanent source of information to the Ogpu."

Fish said he was convinced that everything Agabekoff said was accurate.

Sinclair Lewis' Wife Operated On in Berlin

Berlin, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Mrs. Sinclair Lewis today underwent a successful operation for appendicitis at the Mommsen Clinic, and this afternoon was reported resting comfortably. Prof. Huebner, who performed the operation, said she should recover fully within a fortnight.

Mr. Lewis, who recently came here with his wife from Stockholm, where he received the Noble prize in literature, said Mrs. Lewis was taken ill this morning and the operation was performed in the nick of time.

Electrical Pranks Result In Midshipman's Discharge

Labyrinth of Wires Leading to Bancroft Hall Room Found to Explain Strange Behavoir of Elevator, Lights, Clocks and Telephones.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Discovery of a labyrinth of wires radiating from his room, controlling clocks, telephones and elevators in a wing of Bancroft Hall, home of the midshipmen of the U. S. Naval Academy, has resulted in the resignation of a member of the second or sophomore class, it became known today. The name of the student, whose quarters had been converted into a conning tower for the dormitory, was not made public, but his roommate was given demerits for failing to report his companion's eccentricities.

Following the multitude of wires, authorities discovered the solution of many recent irregularities in the life in the dormitory. Among them was why the elevator used by the privileged first class man shot to the fourth floor when the third floor button was pressed, and then dropped the seniors suddenly to the first floor without warning.

The discovery was made by an officer who heard the click of an electric clock behind the door of the student's quarters. It was found the timepiece in the room was connected to the master clock on the first floor.

Other wires dropped to the second floor telephones, and one of the lines tapped was connected with the outside world. Other wires caused the lights in the corridors to burn brightly for a few minutes and then grow dim.

Confronted with the evidence, the midshipman was said to be unable to give a satisfactory explanation, and was told his resignation would be in order.

torial and the special funds, hope to link higher-ups in the party with the secret fight on Norris last November.

But aside from causing a lot of embarrassment it is difficult to see how they can get anywhere if the administration stands pat. The matter will continue to be agitated with the Progressives insisting that Lucas go and Lucas in turn insisting that Norris leave the party but with each side holding its ground the impasse is bound to continue.

Some kind of a reorganization of the national committee is looked for within the next few months as a matter of course. Senator Fess wants to retire as chairman and then the committee is expected to be dressed up for the 1932 effort.

Hoover's Advisers Split.

Some of Mr. Hoover's advisers are trying to get him to get his next chairman from the old party wheelhorses, such as Dave Mulvane, of Kansas. It is the fact that these old stalwarts have not been given the influence in the party which they have heretofore enjoyed that is responsible for some of Mr. Hoover's political troubles.

Those who are urging that one of them be selected for the chairmanship now argue it would go far toward removing the friction.

On the other hand, with the 1932 political horizon charged with so many possibilities Mr. Hoover is anxious to surround himself with tried and proven Hooverites rather than the wheel horses to whom a President is just another President.

Dr. Dewey Undismayed By Senator's Attitude

New York, Dec. 26 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Dr. John Dewey, chairman of the League for Independent Political Action, views the building of a successful third party as a long process. He is not inclined to be depressed by setbacks, such as the refusal of liberal members of the two dominant parties to break away just at this time.

When interviewed today the venerable philosopher, turned political leader, had not yet heard of Senator Norris' reaction to the proposal that he renounce the Republican party to lead a new liberal party. But by implication he let it be known that he did not expect a favorable response, although he considers Senator Norris one of the men of the old parties who eventually will cast their lot with a new progressive movement.

"The weakness of third-party movements in the past has been that they were too much improvised to meet passing situations, or else built around the person of one man, as in the progressive movement of 1912," he said. "What is required is more preliminary work in building up some kind of social point of view and set of convictions, and getting people together who naturally agree in their ideals. A successful third party must be built from the bottom."

In a supplementary letter to Senator Norris today Howard Y. Williams, executive secretary of the league, announced that local branches and State committees are being formed throughout the country. During the coming winter, he explained, ten State conferences of liberal voters will be held. Most of them will be in Western States, where the league has many local branches.

In setting 1940 as the year in which the new liberal party ought to be able to elect a President Dr. Dewey said he did not desire success put off until that date.

"When we started the league," he said, "we thought we were faced with a long period of preparatory work. But things have moved pretty fast in the last year, both industrially and politically. It looks as if the break might come sooner than we thought."

Second Man Killed By Shots of Bandits

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Charles A. Kern, jr., 45, one of two men shot by a bandit Wednesday in a pay-roll robbery at the American Mills Co., in West Haven, died today.

Kern, chief clerk at the factory, was critically wounded shortly after he and Joseph Ordazzo, 54, gate tender at the mill, had arrived at tender at the mill, had arrived at the plant from a bank with the company's pay roll of $4,931. Ordazzo was fatally wounded by the bandit and died en route to a hospital.

West Haven police today released Edward Slattery, of New Haven, who walked into police headquarters here yesterday and said he had committed the robbery. Police said a checkup of his story had failed to connect him with the crime. Slattery, police said, was intoxicated when he surrendered.

Widow Gives Bond For Maj. Shepard

Denver Woman Confident Army Officer Did Not Slay Wife.

Denver, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Expressing confidence Maj. Charles A. Shepard is innocent of the charge of fatally poisoning his wife, the crime for which he was convicted last week in Kansas City, Kans., Mrs. Alice W. Watt, a Denver widow, today said she had advanced the money used as the premium on his bond of $20,000.

Posting of the bond enabled the Army medical officer to return to Denver pending formal sentencing to life imprisonment and hearing on a motion for a new trial in Federal Court at Topeka, Kans., in February.

"I was glad to help a friend in need," said Mrs. Watt, "and we all know that the major will be vindicated in the long run. What I did for him is nothing more than Maj. Shepard's friends would have done or would have liked to do." Mrs. Watt is the widow of Albert J. Watt, a Denver business man, who died last year.

Services Are Held For Pistol Victim

Funeral of George R. Hale Held From Randolph Street Residence.

George R. Hale, victim of an "unloaded" pistol in the hands of his friend, Charles E. Mullen, jr., was laid to rest in Rock Creek cemetery yesterday afternoon. The young man, who was 25, is survived by his 18-year-old widow, Mrs. Louise Hale, and a daughter born 11 days ago.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 o'clock from his home, 456 Randolph street northwest.

The fatal shooting occurred while the two were playing cards at the home of friends at 2127 California street northwest last Tuesday night, while Mullen, who is the son of Detective Sgt. Mullen, was examining a .38-caliber automatic pistol. Young Mullen was taken into custody by his father, and was later freed under $1,000 bond, after a coroner's jury decided that he had been "criminally negligent" in handling firearms.

EXTRA SESSION HELD OUT OF HOUSE PLANS

Speaker Longworth Says Supply Bils Will Be Passed Early.

STATUS OF MEASURES

Suggestion of an extra session of Congress after March 4 will play no part in the program to be carried out by the House when its sessions are resumed January 5, Speaker Longworth said yesterday.

The schedule calls for passage of all the annual supply bills in ample time for their full consideration by the Senate and an opportunity for the House to deal with all pending controversial legislation. The recommendation of the Department of Agriculture for immediate appropriation of the $45,000,000 already authorized for farm loans in 24 States damaged by the drought, will be submitted to the appropriations committee. Secretary Hyde dispelled all doubt as to his intentions yesterday when he announced that the department would ask for the full amount and not attempt the loans contemplated on the $25,000,000 originally recommended.

The House naval affairs committee has virtually finished its hearings on the naval building program to be undertaken under the terms of the London Treaty and will report the bill authorizing the five-year construction not later than January 15.

Speaker Longworth is confident that this program can be handled easily by the smooth-running machinery of the House, laying the appropriation measures down in such a manner as to give the Senate no grounds for accusing the House of preventing enactment by March 4. The funds for drought relief will be included in the first deficiency bill, expected to follow the War Department bill which will be presented to the House January 5.

The sentiment in the naval affairs committee for substituting a $10,000 flying-deck cruiser for a regulation 6-inch gun ship has been strengthened by the recent testimony of Admiral Pratt, chief of operations. If he had his way, Pratt told the committee, he would use all surplus cruiser tonnage allotted the United States under the London treaty in the flying-deck type.

PARK COMMISSION URGES PARKING BAN

provided for interior parking. The report states, however:

"The policy of progressively and persistently increasing the stringency of restrictions upon the free storage of vehicles in the streets and parks should be so clear and so firmly established that fear of competitive free storage provided by public authorities at the expense of the general taxpayers will not deter investors from providing convenient and economical storage places on private property in the business district at charges commensurate with the cost of the service and with the value of the service to those that use it."

The recommendation concerning the airport was made in the face of contradictory and complicated proposals for providing the Capital with a publically-owned flying field. The commission holds that the District government should control the airport.

Reviewing the activities of the planning body for the fiscal year ending June 30, the report makes the following recommendations, among numerous others:

Elimination of inhabited alleys by the progressive transfer of these properties to other uses. This is now provided in the Capper bill.

Increase in the gasoline tax, so as to make possible an enlarged program of park road construction and maintenance.

Passage of the Capper-Zihlman bill permitting the closing of streets, dedicated, but not constructed, when a change of plans necessitates.

Adoption of a well-coordinated program of bridge construction and replacement.

A program of street cuts in developed portions of the city providing for execution of such projects as elimination of jogs in Harvard street, extension of Vermont avenue, elimination of the Michigan avenue grade crossing over the terminal yards during a period of years.

Crowd at Daughter's Debut Astonishes Mrs. Doherty

Attributes Interest in Helen Lee to Tale That She Painted King Alfonso's Sport Car, Which Another Denies.

(Associated Press.)

In the vortex of the most stupendous holiday party of many a Washington season, Mrs. Henry L. Doherty, of New York, took time last night to do a bit of debunking on the subject of her debutante daughter, Helen Lee Eames Doherty.

To be mother of one whose debut had doubled and trebled in the making, assuming the proportions of a record-smashing event, apparently had been somewhat disconcerting to Mrs. Doherty, despite an ever-evident sense of humor.

She expressed surprise at the tremendous stir caused by Helen Lee's night-after-Christmas ball in the Mayflower Hotel, at which she made her bow to society.

She attributed the swelling crowd to her daughter's recent artistic and literary fame, which, she said, had grown somewhat out of proportion to actuality.

Mrs. Doherty insisted her daughter did not hand-paint the King of Spain's sport car—that her work on the silhouette sports automobile had been that of thinking out the idea and planning the designs.

"My daughter is not a finished artist, but simply an amateur," she said.

Nor has Helen Lee been doing translations from the Greek, Mrs. Doherty said. Her daughter is an accomplished linguist, but she can use Greek only in a meagre way, her mother said.

"The actual work done on the car which went to the King of Spain was done by Mrs. Natalie MacDonald Hall, who is a trained and finished artist," said Mrs. Doherty. "My daughter has not had any time since her arrival even to carry out any of her own ideas on the many possibilities of hand-painted cars. She has, however, copyrighted the idea of cars of this type, and has many interesting plans for them. The car is to be known as the Helen Lee car."

"As for being an author," continued Mrs. Doherty, "all my daughter is doing is to translate from Spanish into English a textbook on mineralogy for one of her professors in the University of Madrid, Don Celso Arevalo, a brilliant scientist."

Mrs. Doherty made it clear her guests were welcome, but she just hadn't been prepared for the unusual number of acceptances in proportion to the number of invitations sent. She wasn't expecting the idea to be taken up so unanimously, and she attributed the result partly to the King of Spain and the Greek translation tales. As a sensible mother, she wished for her daughter only credit for her actual attainments, a sentiment shared by the equally sensible Helen Lee.

Her portrait is to be painted by Howard Chandler Christy in the elaborate 1832 period gown she might have worn—if it hadn't turned out to be such a spectacular party.

DEBUT OF MISS DOHERTY DAZZLING SOCIAL FUNCTION

of the prnicipal cities along the Eastern coast.

The entire first floor of the hotel was taken over for the reception, and another floor was reserved for the out-of-town guests. A small army of waiters, cooks, caterers, decorators and furniture movers were employed and two 22-piece jazz orchestras played continuously. A dinner for Miss Doherty preceded the dancing, and a five-course supper for the guests marked the midnight hour. A breakfast was served at 4 a. m. for those who danced until they were hungry again.

An elaborate entertainment was staged, with Jessica Dragonette, well-known radio star, and the Cavalier's quartet, imported from New York for the occasion, rendering songs during the supper hour and at intervals throughout the evening.

Holly, Australian ferns and poinsettias decorated the rooms in which the gala affair was held. A novel and elaborate centerpiece on Miss Doherty's table, furnished by Sherry's, of New York, represented a winter church scene.

Ribbons were attached from the tiny church to each of the place cards and cigarette lighters and vanity boxes were given as favors to each of the guests at her table.

Miss Doherty's Table Guests.

Seated at Miss Doherty's table and assisting her during the reception were Miss Dorothy Ann Hardin and Miss Garnett Northcott, of Huntington, W. Va.; Miss Margaret Morrey, of New York; Mrs. William Mondell and Miss Elizabeth Dunlop, of Washington; the Marquis George MacDonald, a lifelong friend of Mr. Doherty, who acted as the debutante's escort; Senor Don Ramon Padilla, of the Spanish Embassy; Mr. William Mondell; Mr. Frederick Carbus, of Philadelphia; Mr. Carl Couchman, of Long Island; Mr. Oliver Walker and Lieut. James Regan, of New York.

Vice President Curtis and Mr. and Mrs. Gann, members of the Diplomatic Corps and the Secretary of War and Mrs. Hurley, were guests at the table of Mr. and Mrs. Doherty. Other members of the Diplomatic Corps were seated at a third large table, while Mr. and Mrs. William Alton Jones, friends of the Dohertys, were hosts to a fourth large group, which included the guests from New York. The balance of the company were seated at smaller tables around the presidential dining room.

Among the members of the Diplomatic Corps who were present were the Ambassador from Chile and Senora de Davila, the Peruvian Ambassador, the Minister of Switzerland and Mrs. Marc Peter, the Minister from Panama and Mme. Alfaro, the Albanian Minister, the Minister from Norway and Mme. Bachke, the Minister of Bolivia and his daughter, Senorita Diez de Medina, the Minister from the Irish Free State, the Minister of Nicaragua and Senora de Sacasa, the Minister from Ecuador and the Minister from South Africa and Mrs. Hendrik Louw.

Mother's and Daughter's Gown.

Regal in bearing, Miss Doherty has been a distinctive figure among the Capital's debutantes since her return this fall from several years of study in Europe. She is the daughter of an earlier marriage of Mrs. Henry L. Doherty, and was legally adopted by her millionaire stepfather. For her debut last night she chose a simple gown of flesh pink chiffon with a high crystal buckled belt and long peplum bordered with crystals and pearls.

During the evening she changed flowers several times, first wearing the bouquet presented by her parents, and later changing to other bouquets sent by her friends.

Mrs. Doherty appeared in a gown of white chiffon bordered in black, and beaded in a delicate black and white design with crystals and pearls. An unusual feature of her dress was its matching chiffon dinner jacket, embroidered elaborately in black and white, and fitted about three-quarter length.

Readily conceded to be one of the most lavish private entertainments Washington has ever seen, the estimated cost exceeded $50,000.

Killer of Own Child Flees County Jail

Man Facing Chair and Four Others Saw Way Out of Lock-Up.

Waycross, Ga., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Five prisoners, including J. H. Parker, awaiting execution for the murder of his small child, escaped from the Ware County jail here today by sawing bars in their cells and jumping from a second-story window.

Parker's wife and baby were found buried in a field near his home several months ago. He was tried on a charge of murdering the child and was convicted and sentenced to death in the electric chair January 9, 1931. The charge of killing his wife has not come to trial.

$12,720,670 of Gold Bullion Sent to Mint

Denver, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The United States mint here received gold and silver bullion valued at $13,402,377 in 1930, said a report today of Frank E. Shepard, superintendent. Of this amount $12,720,670 was gold. The total amount of bullion was $352,163 greater than that of 1929.

Colorado contributed $3,160,285 in gold and $76,549 in silver. South Dakota shipped the largest amount of gold, $8,311,387. Most of it came from the famous Homestake mine.

REFERENDUM URGES SHOALS PLANT SALE

15 PROJECTS ADOPTED

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, through a referendum, has decided by an overwhelming majority that the Muscle Shoals project should be sold or leased.

Fifteen propositions, constituting a national water power policy, were adopted by the organization membership. The chamber did not call for a vote on the Norris plan for Government operation of the power plants at Muscle Shoals. Therefore, the results announced yesterday are not expected to influence members in the consideration of the compromise program before the conference committee.

The proposal put up to the members of the chamber says: "That the Muscle Shoals project should be sold or leased, as is, on the best possible terms." The vote on this was for, 2,640; against, 157.

That is not considered a fair test on the pending legislation.

The report submitted to referendum was prepared by a special committee of the national chamber, of which Frederic A. Delano, former member of the Federal Reserve Board, is chairman.

As a result of the referendum, the principles become an accepted part of the national chamber policy.

"That the Federal Government should leave to the States all possible control over utilization of water resources within the States: For, 2,-815½; against, 63½.

"That each State should have an agency to promote and regulate development of its water resources: For, 2,739½; against, 129½.

"That State commissions should be authorized to initiate proceedings in which they may exercise their regulatory powers, including proceedings as to disparities in domestic rates: For, 2,669½; against, 172½.

Charge of Mexican Prelate Answered

Episcopal Bishop Denies Protestant Plot to Absorb Nation.

New York, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—An answer to the Christmas message of Archbishop Pascual Diaz of Mexico, urging Catholics to check the advance of Protestantism in that country, was issued here today by Bishop Frank W. Creighton, of the Episcopal Church in Mexico.

Bishop Creighton construed the archbishop's message as a charge that Americans had sought to implant Protestantism in Mexico "with a view to gradually absorbing that country." He denied that "any of the so-called Protestant missions in Mexico concerned themselves with the internal affairs of the country," and said:

"It is not enough merely to state that the archbishop's charge is unfounded, nor to reiterate that Mexican Protestants have always been loyal to the government. Facts speak for themselves. When the provisions of the constitution of Mexico became effective the Protestants were obedient and cooperative, while the Catholic Church indulged in over a year of passive and in some cases of active resistance."

Craigie Escapes From Mexicans

The State Department was informed yesterday by Ambassador Clark at Mexico City that Hugh M. Craigie, American mining engineer, had escaped from bandits and was safe at Santa Barbara, Chihuahua. No details were received.

El Paso Tex., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The El Paso Herald says Francis H. Styles, American Consul at Chihuahua City, Mexico, telephoned today a suspect had been arrested in connection with the kidnaping of Hugh M. Craigie, American mine foreman, who escaped Wednesday.

Styles said the suspect probably would be jailed at Chihuahua City. Craigie, who was held for ransom, is safe at his home in Santa Barbara, Chihuahua, the consul reported.

Navy Would End Oyster-Bed Lease

Refusal to Renew Privilege in Yorktown Area Is Expected Soon.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy Department will decline, probably within the week-end, renewal of a lease permitting Virginia oystermen to take oysters from the naval mine base area at Yorktown.

Rear Admiral David F. Chinn, chairman of the Virginia Fisheries Commission, had submitted a plan advocating a 20-year lease.

Under its provisions, the State would sub-lease areas to individuals or organizations for probable periods of five years. The present lease expires in May, 1931.

Corn Sugar Label Held Not Necessary on Food

(Associated Press.)

Hyde expressed the opinion that the ruling would stimulate consumption of corn sugar, and provide for an expansion of the industry without affecting the domestic sugar producer.

WOMAN LOCATED BY POLICE SEARCH

EXPLAINS HER ABSENCE

After a two-day search by police and citizens for Mrs. Katherine E. Trower, 41 years old, who had been missing since Christmas Eve from her home at 3310 Twenty-second street northeast, she was found by Detective Sergt. Joseph Waldron, of the police homicide squad, in a rooming house on C street, near Third street northwest, early last night.

It developed that Mrs. Trower had not been kidnaped, as at first reported. She was located as the result of a clew furnished by a taxi driver, who said that he had taken the woman, in company with a man, to the C street address after calling for her at her home and driving both to Hyattsville, Md., and back early Christmas morning.

According to Mr. Waldron, the woman said that she had not intended to remain away from her home for so long when she left, but had been unable to gain entrance into her apartment, when she returned, without awakening members of her family, and took a room at the C street address.

Police say that she was with Bailey Nicholson, 25 years old, of Thirteenth street, near D street southeast. He was located through the taxi driver, and admitted to Mr. Waldron that the woman was in the rooming house when Mr. Waldron found him there last night.

Police took no action against the two, and, after questioning at headquarters, they were allowed to leave. Mrs. Trower, who is a former undercover agent for the Department of Justice and former matron at the District Jail, left police headquarters with Nicholson. She was said by police to be a former wife of a member of the District Fire Department.

Blackmailer Given 2½ Years in Prison

Youth, Is Second Caught in an Effort to Mulct Rich Lumberman.

Kansas City, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Admitting an attempt to extort $25,-000 from R. A. Long, wealthy lumberman, Charles L. Duncan, 23, was sentenced to two and a half years in the Missouri Penitentiary in Criminal Court today on a charge of third degree robbery.

Duncan was the second youth sentenced to prison by Judge Ralph S. Latshaw on charges resulting from attempts to extort money from Mr. Long. The first was Thaddeus S. Wilson, a school teacher, convicted in 1911 of attempting to extort $5,-000.

Duncan was arrested Wednesday when he started to recover a decoy package placed by detectives at a place designated in letters received by Mr. Long demanding $25,000.

The youth maintained his innocence through 20 hours of questioning, confessing, police said, when confronted with identical misspelling of words in the threatening letters and in a test made by officers.

JAIL TERM IS GIVEN ON DRUNKEN DRIVING

ANOTHER BOUND TO JURY

Roy Davidson, Negro, was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction and a fine of $100 yesterday in Prince Georges County Police Court at Upper Marlboro. The man was convicted of driving while drunk. An additional fine of $10 was imposed on the strength of a reckless driving charge.

The charge against Davidson rose out of an accident on the Defense highway on November 2, in which William A. Carr was injured. Carr has been in the hospital ever since, although he was able to testify yesterday. Davidson was arrested by County Policeman C. E. Dutrow.

Judge J. Chew Sheriff also held Charles Davis, Negro, for action of the grand jury, on a charge of entering with intent to rob. Davis was shot in the leg last week by John Pyles, superintendent of the House of Reformation at Cheltenham, where the injured man was a prisoner. Mr. Pyles heard a noise in a pantry and fired in the darkness, striking Davis. Bond for the colored man was fixed at $1,000.

Two Negroes were arrested yesterday, and two others were held as witnesses, in connection with a gun battle near Huntsville, Md., Christmas Day. The shooting resulted in the wounding of two other Negroes, Thomas Washington and Jesse Allen.

According to Lieut. Tom Garrison, who made the arrests, the men who are held are Gene Allen and Theodore Roosevelt Gordon.

Percy Jones, colored, of Oxon Hill, Md., was arrested yesterday, and charged with driving while drunk and reckless driving, in connection with an accident on the Livingston road Christmas night, in which one man was injured. Bail for Jones was set at $1,000. He was arrested and committed to jail by Justice of the Peace Benson McDaniels.

Jones' car is alleged to have forced a machine driven by Harvey Sharrow, of 927 G street southeast, off the road. Sharrow was cut on the hands and face, but was able to leave Casualty Hospital after treatment.

A committee composed of six members of the Bladensburg unit of the county rescue squad met last night and completed arrangements for the masquerade and dance in the parish hall New Year's Eve. The festival is planned to raise funds for the squad, whose treasury is completely empty.

ASSESSMENT RATE CUT IN ALEXANDRIA

MOVE AFFECTS BUDGET

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The local board of tax equalization announced yesterday that the assessment on all real estate, as arrived at by the local board of assessors will be cut in half, which will make it necessary for the city council to revise the tentative tax rate of $1.20 on each $100 of assessed valuation, as shown in the tentative budget submitted at the last meeting of the council.

The tax equalization board took into consideration the fact that the newly appointed board of assessors had placed a fair market value upon the real estate holdings of Alexandrians, and had apparently intended that taxes should be paid upon this market value, rather than upon a fictitious value of some 30 or 40 per cent of the actual value, as has been the basis for some years past.

The property of public utilities is assessed by the State Corporation Commission, which has found that a range of rates between 9 and 72 per cent of the fair market value, has of late been assessed against such property. The Corporation Commission, therefore, placed 40 per cent as a fair valuation on corporate property.

Members of the city council last night were reticent as to what tax rate will finally be adopted at the meeting next week.

Mrs. Ellen B. Studds, widow of W. R. Studds, died on Thursday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Oscar B. Pierpoint, 114 North Columbus street, after an illness of over a year. The deceased, beside her sister, is survived by a brother, J. H. Johnson, of Fairfax County. The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pierpoint, conducted by the Rev. Dr. D. L. Snyder, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Rev. Dr. E. V. Regester, presiding elder of the Alexandria district, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Jack Glascock, aged 52, who has been for the past 25 years employed as a brakeman on the Southern Railway, died in bed on Thursday at Monroe, Va., shortly after eating his Christmas dinner. The body was brought to Demaine's Chapel, this city, yesterday, and will be sent today to The Plains, Va., for burial.

The funeral of Harvey J. Millan, aged 47, who died suddenly on Christmas morning, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the home, 305 East Peyton avenue, Potomac, and will be conducted by the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Beside his wife, Mrs. Alice J. Millan, he is survived by two sons, Archie J. and Harvey J. Millan, and a daughter, Vivian Millan. The deceased was a member of Andrew Jackson Lodge of Masons, Acca Temple, Scottish Rite Masons, Alexandria Council No. 5, Order Fraternal Americans, and the Orientals.

FINAL DATE IS SET FOR BOARD SESSION

Annexation by Alexandria Is Held Unlikely to Reduce Revenue.

TERM ENDS WEDNESDAY

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendno, Va.

Meeting yesterday at the county courthouse, the Tax Equalization Board made plans for holding final public hearings Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, the final date for hearings, under the act authorizing appointment of the board.

Despite the fact that the county has lost a large portion of its area through recent annexation of a large section of the county, within Jefferson District, by the City of Alexandria, the final report of the board is expected to show that the loss in revenue to the county will be largely made up as a result of the equalization of the taxes on real estate.

Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, yesterday issued a warning against gatherings that might tend to spread scarlet fever in the county.

At the present time there are but a few scattered cases, in the county, Dr. Chichester pointed out, adding that there is danger at this season of the year, and precautions should be taken.

"I think it would be wise," said Dr. Chichester, "if parents would not permit their children to mingle with others, if they are suffering from the slightest indisposition."

The Grace Episcopal Church Sunday School, of Thrifton Village, will hold its annual Christmas entertainment tonight in the church, at 8 o'clock.

Recognizing that the needy of the county will require a great deal of assistance during the winter months, Thomas R. Mechem, chairman of the relief committee, recently appointed by the executive committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation, which will cooperate with the county welfare board, is mapping out a program.

Mechem has called upon the various Boy Scout leaders in the county, asking that the members donate part of their time each Saturday in cutting up fallen trees in certain sections of the county which have been made available to the committee. The boys will also be asked to assist in the distribution of the wood to the needy families.

A subcommittee, consisting of Mrs. Alice S. Semones, Mrs. C. K. Lewis, Mrs. Eleanor Gary, Mrs. L. C. McNemar and Mrs. Harry A. Fellows, has been appointed to arrange for a card party to raise funds for the work of the committee. This will be held some time during January.

S. W. Ferguson, charged with illegal possession of alleged liquor, waived hearing in police court yesterday and was held for the action of the grand jury by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas. He was later released on $500 bond for appearance at the February term of the Circuit Court of Arlington County.

The Clarendon Loyal Temperance Legion will hold its monthly meeting this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Jessie T. Dean, 33 Wheeler avenue, Clarendon. The meeting will be in charge of Miss Sara Miller, the new director.

Christmas Plot In Havana Nipped

Secret Police Arrest Colonel and Report Arms for Uprising.

Havana, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Authorities announced tonight a revolutionary plot, scheduled to mature Christmas Eve, was frustrated by secret police. Col. Aurelio Hevia, a leader in the Nationalist Union, was arrested and placed in Cabanas fortress.

Arms and ammunition had been procured and the time for a demonstration had been set, the police said. The demonstration was canceled when the leaders learned the government knew of the plans.

Many Nationalists and Communists were involved, along with some university students, it was said.

It was announced tonight that Col. Hevia would be tried before a military court for his part in the alleged conspiracy.

Richmond Masons to Mark 150th Anniversary on December 28, 29.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Another sesquicentennial celebration will be observed here Sunday and Monday, when the Richmond Lodge, No. 10, A. F. and A. M., will observe the 150th anniversary of the lodge's founding.

The lodge built its hall here, in conjunction with Lodge No. 19, and it now is the oldest Masonic building in continuous use for Masonic purposes in America. Lodge No. 10 now is the fifth oldest lodge in Virginia. It has sent out 900 invitations to its sesquicentennial ceremonies.

The actual anniversary is Sunday, December 28, when the lodge members will hear a sermon by the Rev. T. W. Hooper, of Culpeper, grand junior deacon of Virginia. On Monday the grand master of Virginia, the Rev. Frank T. McFadden, of Winchester, will address the lodge, which has 784 members. Among the past masters the lodge includes John Marshall and Edmund Randolph. Lafayette was an honorary member. Fred Andrews is master now.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THE reluctance of the Progressives to embrace any third party just now, and perhaps never, can be appreciated when it is realized that the spirit of insurgency is confined almost solely to them; that it does not, as a matter of fact, even take in the House members from their States.

It is one of the anomalies of Middle Western politics that these senators go on insurging year after year and periodically are reelected. And at the same time the House members go on supporting the President year after year and every two years are reelected.

It is difficult to understand.

* * * *

IN the last election Idaho reelected Mr. Borah and also its two most redoubtable administration supporters, Representatives Addison Smith and Burton French. Similarly, North Dakota sent back Messrs. Burtness, Hall and Sinclair, and this is the State that on the other side of the Capitol gives us Senator Frazier and Senator Nye himself.

Time after time the insurgent senators ride head-on into the President knowing as they do so that sooner or later they must back away and eat crow because the House members from their own States will not stand by them. And these gentlemen seem to get along in a very satisfactory manner with their constituents, as do the senators, too, of course.

* * * *

BUT if they won't follow their senators in the degree of insurgency which we now have it would seem to be idle to contemplate their following the senators into a third party.

When one looks over the vast array of House members from the States which send us the insurgent senators, see them going along day after day with the President, apparently contented and just now and then even so much as complaining, the conclusion is inescapable that the spirit of insurgency which the senators would have us believe is beating over all the agricultural States is beating nowhere so hard as it is in the breasts of the senators themselves.

* * * *

SENATOR NORRIS' rejection of Prof. Dewey's proffer and the cold reception which it got among the Progressives generally will not, of course, stop the third party talk.

The indications point to 1932 being a most unusual political year, and it is fraught with so many possibilities that a third party might easily be one of them.

It would not be safe to dismiss the thought of a third party, in fact, as long as the inimitable Gifford Pinchot lives and rides high.

Gilbert H. Beesemyer Receives Sentence in Thefts of $8,000,000.

FACES COURT CALMLY

Los Angeles, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Gilbert H. Beesemyer, 45, whose $8,000,000 defalcations wrecked the Guaranty Building and Loan Association of Los Angeles, was sentenced to from 10 to 100 years in San Quentin Penitentiary today.

The former financial leader of Hollywood pleaded guilty to ten counts of grand theft, and Superior Judge Walton J. Wood sentenced him to serve from one to ten years on each count, the terms to run consecutively. He will not be eligible for parole until he has served ten years.

Beesemyer faced the court calmly just as he had the board of directors of the association, of which he was secretary-manager and 65 per cent stockholder, two weeks ago when he confessed the embezzlements.

At the close of the proceedings he embraced his brother and was led away to his jail cell. He will be taken to San Quentin Prison next Friday.

Auditors reported total defalcations from the Guaranty Association at $7,661,793.78 and the total from the North American Bond & Mortgage ries of exhaustive tests her condition was found to be good. The board said there was no reason why she should not be continued in service from two to four years longer provided she was operated in the same careful manner as in the past, with frequent inspections and renewals of worn or deteriorated parts when necessary.

The airship, constructed by the Zeppelin Airship Co. at Friedrichshafen, Germany, for the United States Government as a replacement for two smaller airships to which the United States was entitled at the close of the World War, was flown to Lakehurst October 12, 1924, in a nonstop flight of 5,066 miles.

Since her commissioning, she has been under way more than 2,500 hours, and has flown in that time more than 110,000 air miles. She also has operated about 1,200 hours at mooring masts. No other rigid airship has had such a long and continuously useful life.

The Los Angeles has a full speed of 65 knots, and carries a crew of 35 officers and men. She is commanded by Lieut. Comdr. V. A. Clarke, jr., U. S. Navy.

This will be the second visit of the Los Angeles to the Panama Canal. In February, 1928, she flew to Panama and returned.

BISHOP'S SON HELD ON CHECK CHRAGES

Maj. Cannon Is Bound Over for Trial on Three Accusations.

OTHER CLAIMS IMPEND

El Monte, Calif., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Maj. Richard M. Cannon, son of Bishop James Cannon, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, was bound over to the Superior Court for trial on three charges of issuing worthless checks after a preliminary hearing today before Justice of the Peace F. G. Wilson. One check charge was dismissed on motion of the prosecutor.

Maj. Cannon also faced several labor claim charges, to which he pleaded not guilty and asked for jury trials. The first trial will be held here January 8.

The check charges grew out of an alleged worthless $100 check given to George H. Myers, a plastering contractor. The second was for $25 given to Calvert S. Wilson, solicitor for the military school here which Cannon was launching. The third charge alleged Cannon gave Mis Rose Burwell a check for $40, which was not paid by the bank. Bail on the charges aggregated $900.

Eugene R. Case, commandant of the military school, testified Cannon told him he knew there was insufficient money in the bank to cover the checks but as he had overdrawn in one case, he decided to issue the others. Case quoted the bishop's son as saying the district attorney probably would not act until he had three checks at least, and he did not think the various claimants would know about the other checks issued.

Nute and Prosser, stockholders, also asked appointment of an ancillary receiver for the company. Their petition said that, although earnings since March, 1930, have been insufficient to meet current obligations and interest on debenture bonds, the properties have a valuation above the liabilities.

MAN WHO CREATED 'ABE MARTIN' DEAD

WRITER SHUNNED PUBLIC

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Frank McKinney Hubbard, whose witticisms have been given to newspaper and magazine readers through the medium of a tall, gawky character known as "Abe Martin," died suddenly at his home here today. Death followed an attack of heart disease.

After his death his close friends and associates learned that he was 62 years old. He would never tell them his age. He disliked personal publicity, but was prevailed upon several years ago to prepare an autobiography. In this he told of his boyhood at Bellefontaine, Ohio, the place of his birth, of his yearning to be an actor or showman and of his ultimate development into a newspaper artist and humorist.

It was 26 years ago that he drew his first "Abe Martin" for the Indianapolis News. It has been a regular feature of the news since that time and in recent years more than 300 newspapers and many magazines have printed some of the quaint remarks of this character whose habitat was supposed to be the Brown County hills of Indiana.

Only a few weeks ago Mr. Hubbard published his last annual book entitled "Abe Martin's Broadcast."

In this book "Abe" and his neighbors made some remarks about current events:

"Abe" said: "When we do see a nice, well-kept, prosperous-lookin' farm we find it's the plaything o' some town plutocrat."

He also remarked that "Constable Plum has padlocked Joe Means' auto till he buys some coal an' shoes for his family."

Mr. Hubbard was known to his associates as "Kin." He is survived by his widow, a son, Tom; a daughter Virginia, and a brother, Horace K. Hubbard, and a sister, Miss Ada Hubbard, publishers of the Daily Examiner, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

The brother and sister were en route to Florida when he died. Funeral arrangements have been held in abeyance pending word from them.

Maj. Franco Quits Lisbon for Belgium

Lisbon, Portugal, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Maj. Ramon Franco, in striking contrast with his triumphal arrival in Lisbon after his flight to South America a few years ago, left here tonight for Antwerp as a steerage passenger.

With him was his inseparable friend and mechanic, Pablo Rada, who, with Franco, escaped from Spain after their abortive revolutionary attempt of ten days ago.

There were few friends at the quay to say farewell. Clad in a shabby tweed suit, a khaki military overcoat and a gray cap, and with no baggage except a small bundle of necessaries, Franco looked the typical emigrant.

Franco said he had no plans for the immediate future but would probably seek employment in the Dornier or Zeppelin works in Germany, failing which he would take sanctuary in Paris.

Before embarking the aviator called on the commander of the infantry school at Mafra, where they have been interned since they took refuge in Portugal, and thanked him for the kindness shown them and their colleagues there.

Chevy Chase Church Plans Tea Tomorrow

The young people's committee of Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church has sent invitations to all of the college and university students and recent graduates of the church and congregation, both those living at home and those away at college, to a home-coming tea tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock at the church house.

An old-fashioned Christmas celebration will be held at Washington Heights Presbyterian Church Monday evening, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. All of the children of the Sunday school, and their elders, too, will take part in the program, which will consist, among other things, of the singing of Christmas carols.

Instead of receiving gifts, the children will give them, and what they give will be to the poor.

Thursday, New Year's Day, being the Feast of the Circumcision of Christ, both events will be celebrated at Washington Cathedral with morning prayer and litany at 11 o'clock.

All Souls Will Show "The Viking" Picture

A popular feature at All Souls' Unitarian Church, the motion picture house, will be revived tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. The feature to be shown will be "The Viking," which is the story of the voyage of Lief Ericson from Greenland to America.

It is in technicolor and very beautiful.

Features in Tomorrow's Post

Under the guiding influence of its secretary, Robert P. Lamont and Dr. Julius Klein, the Department of Commerce has begun to center its attention on domestic rather than foreign commerce, with surveys being made to determine the "whys and wherefores" of business successes and failures. This change of policy, so important to the Nation, is explained in detail by David Rankin Barbee in a special story in tomorrow's Post.

Another Government yarn, this one in the tabloid magazine, is called "The Personal Services Uncle Sam Renders Us" and lists the many activities by Federal agencies which aid our lives, day by day.

"A Three Million Dollar Business Behind a Smoke Screen," a magazine story dealing with beverages containing more than one-half per cent of alcohol and how they are delivered, despite police and Federal vigilance.

Many interesting anecdotes of the Washington police department are contained in a tabloid magazine story called "The Modern Policeman Takes to Wheels, Wings and Radio."

A brand new feature for every one is furnished by Edith Johnson who writes on "Life's Daily Problems." She will answer questions on almost any of life's little worries; all Post readers have to do is ask the questions.

Mystery Veils Acceptance Of 'Lowly' Office by Stalin

Soviet Dictator Becomes Ordinary Member of Council of Labor and Defense; Moscow Papers Silent on Significance of Gesture.

Moscow, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Joseph Stalin, whose last office in the Soviet government was membership in the old commissariat of nationalities seven years ago, today holds another office—ordinary membership in the council of labor and defense.

Chairmanship of this important body is vested in Viacheslav Molotoff, who is president of the political bureau and also of the council of commissars. Andre Andreieff, who is president of the central control committee and of the peasants and workers' inspection commissariat, is deputy chairman.

Stalin continues as head of the Communist party and the newspapers make no comment upon his motives in accepting this new government post. The council of labor and defense is one of the three interlocking groups which govern Russia. The others are the state planning committee and the central executive committee of the Communist party.

The council of people's commissars, in announcing the new personnel of the labor and defense council, announced also the creation of a new body to be known as the "commission of performance," composed of members of other commissions and delegated the duty of "verifying actual execution of government directions for socialistic construction, and with perfecting the work of government machinery." Molotoff is chairman of this council also and Andreieff is deputy chairman.

"Friendship Courts" are the newest legal experiments of the Soviet government. These courts are to be tried in factories of the Moscow district. They will not exercise the power of fining and imprisoning "offenders," but will be for the purpose of disciplining and reforming workers who are addicted to carelessness, inebriation, loafing and other such habits.

The economic authorities, in their battle to bring to a successful conclusion the famous five-year industrialization plan, have determined that all waste effort shall be eliminated as far as possible. Most of this waste, they have found, is due to the laxity of the undisciplined workers themselves.

The plan is for each factory to have its own court with a head judge and two assistants elected by the employes for a period of one year. Trials will be held of any workers accused of "lying down on the job" and any employe will be permitted to take part in the arguments either for or against the defendants. The procedure at any one of the trials will be simple reading of the charges by the head judge, an oral answer by the accused and the final summing up in arguments by any one present who cares to argue. The three judges then discuss and announce their verdict.

The court can impose any of the following "punishments:" "comradely" persuasion; "comradely" reprimand; public reprimand with or without publication in the press; transfer from a higher to a lower paid job; suspension for a definite period; discharge from the factory and finally deprivation of trade-union membership for a stated time.

Soviet authorities hope that the new courts will greatly increase the percentage of factory efficiency which recently has drawn considerable criticism from the Russian newspapers.

12 Planes Ready For Long Sea Hop

Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—A fleet of fourteen Italian seaplanes reposed on the calm Atlantic here today ready for their great adventure.

When all preparations are made and the weather is favorable, twelve of the planes will strike out for Natal, Brazil, on the first transatlantic flight of such an air squadron. From Natal they will fly to Rio Janeiro, probably next week.

The ditsance of about 1,800 miles is to be patrolled by naval vessels, which will be ready to race to any point where a planes' wireless may indicate the ship is coming down.

The planes took off from Obetello, Italy, December 17, for Cartagena, Spain. Bad weather forced six to land in the Balearic Isles, later to rejoin the fleet. They are commanded by Gen. Italo Balbo, Italian air minister.

WESTERN RAILROADS START CLASS FARES

Two Lines Given Permission to Sell Second-Class Transportation.

RATES MAY BE SLASHED

(Associated Press.)

The class passenger fare system widely used on European railroads is finding new advocates among carriers in the Western States.

Two lines—the St. Louis-San Francisco, and the Santa Fe—have received permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission to use second class tickets, and G. J. McGuire, secretary of the Western Passenger Association, indicated yesterday in Chicago, a possibility that other Southwestern companies might seek to meet the two-cent a mile rate authorized on the Frisco.

Under the commission's order, the Frisco is permitted to sell the second class tickets for use only on day coaches. It is expected to put the plan into effect early next year.

The Santa Fe, operating from Chicago through the Southwest to California, has received permission to sell after January 1, second class tickets between points in Arizona, California and New Mexico. It also may cut rates for round trip tickets between Kansas City and Lawrence and Topeka, Kans.

The Southeastern Passenger Association through George S. Shepard, its secretary, yesterday was authorized by the commission to use joint low rates from Southearstern points to the Pacific Coast. The rate is based on the regular fares to New Orleans, Memphis, St. Louis and Chicago with a two-cent rate from those gateways to the coast. The tickets west of the Mississippi are to be good on tourist sleepers.

Several Southeastern roads have been selling low rate round trip tickets within the range of bus travel for the last year or more.

1930 Most Turbulent Year For Supporters of League

International Situation More Troubled Than at Any Period Since Locarno Treaty was Signed, But Some Factors Register Progress.

Geneva, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The year 1930 has brought to League of Nations supporters many heartaches and some substantial reasons for rejoicing.

The end of the year, observers at Geneva generally agree, finds the international situation more troubled than at any time since the Locarno treaty was signed. Yet indications are not lacking that these twelve months embody a record of progress for the ideal of peaceful international cooperation.

Unhappy factors, both political and economic, are easy to find. The naval deadlock between France and Italy has kindled ill feeling among the peoples of these neighbor states. German and Polish relations are now exceedingly delicate. Growth of Hitlerism in Germany has aroused sharp concern in France and other countries which regard integrity of the peace treaties as the essential basis of European peace.

Above all and under all other distressing conditions is the general economic depression, which gives rise in many parts of the world to hard feelings.

The league's efforts during 1930 to improve international commercial relations by tariff reductions met disappointment. Many league authorities believe that trade barriers constitute the greatest present menace to world harmony, and they call "economic disarmament" the most urgent task of the league.

Two forward strides have been taken in the program of disarmament, through the London naval conference and in the work of the preparatory commission for the disarmament conference.

Granted that the London treaty falls far short of expectations, say observers here, it embodies a genuine advance upon a long and difficult road. Likewise, the draft convention put together by the preparatory commission at Geneva, is marred by many defects, but it provides a working basis for the general disarmament conference and permits the consideration of a definite date for the world congress on army limitation.

New vigor was injected into the permanent court of international justice during 1930, according to opinion here. The principle of compulsory arbitration gained strength through adherence by many states to the "optional cause" of the court statute and the "general act" for pacific settlement of disputes.

The appointment of Prentiss Gilbert as chief American consular officer at Geneva, to observe league business, is greeted here as a token of growing interest at Washington in the league's activities.

Assisted by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the league's aviation committee during the year has done some preparatory work toward the adoption of an international code of regulations for interstate flying.

In the economic sphere league optimism decidedly has its back to the wall. Here hope grows out of the very barrenness of the situation. Gritting his teeth, the Geneva optimist mutters: "The frank and resolute facing of facts with regard to the world's economic difficulties is an augur of better days to come."

In its search for remedies, the assembly in September authorized a world survey of economic factors. The aim is to learn the causes and circumstances of the prevailing crisis and to gather data upon the recurrence of periods of depression. Valuable materials are expected from this inquiry.

The report of the gold delegation, dealing with the prospects for the supply of monetary gold, is regarded by experts here as a monumental work.

CHURCHES TO GREET NEW YEAR AT NIGHT

"Watch" Services That Start at 11 Were Formerly Spent in Prayer.

"TESTIMONY" ALSO GIVEN

One of the old festivals of the church, the watch night service, will be observed Wednesday in some of the churches of Washington. It used to be a beautiful custom, one that was generally observed and well attended, too.

I remember as a boy attending such services with my father. We would leave home at the stroke of 11 and trudge through deep snow to the church, there to find a large company gathered, the lecture room, where the service was held, bright with the lamp light and cheerful with the glow of the fires in big stoves.

Most of the congregation were the elders of the church, though many a youngster was there with his parents and many a belle with her beau. It was a time of seriousness, when laymen, more so than now, indulged in public prayer.

Testimonies Given.

For upwards of an hour the service went on, with songs and prayers, a Scripture reading and exposition by the pastor, and often with testimonies from the saints. I have seen noted men rise and make public confession of their sins, tears streaming down their cheeks, before an audience that seemed strangely moved.

And the prayers that went up to the throne of grace. Those who made intercession seemed to draw close to God. They supplicated Him with such simple eloquence that one had a sense of the very presence of deity.

Promptly at the stroke of 12 there would be silence, then quiet prayer, after which the minister would conclude the service with a petition which seemed to catch up the thoughts of all and send them to the stars.

Jollity Ruled Too.

Even in those days there was secular observance of this occasion, for the reverent worshippers, leaving a dozen churches, with solemn thoughts stirring their bosoms, were brought back rudely to a realization of the things of earth by the noice of bells pealing out the birth of a New Year, the explosion of various fire arms and the bursting of rockets and other fireworks.

There was not so much of a social celebration of the event as now, but still there were wild parties in many homes, in which the spirit of the Lord did not brood so gently as in the homes of those who were wending their way silently home from the kirk.

Gunning, past Washington section president, and others, is continually in demand for rallies, communion breakfasts and meetings.

Recently a banner rally was held in St. Gabriel's parish, where about 500 men attended. Bishop McNamara and the Very Rev. Ignatius Smith were the principal speakers. Mr. McCarron spoke for the members of the Holy Name Society.

Meeting Held at Chevy Chase.

In the Blessed Sacrament parish, of which the Rev. Thomas Gibbons Smyth is pastor, an enthusiastic meeting was held. The flying squadron spurred the men on to higher achievement in Holy Name work.

A meeting was held by the colored branch of the Holy Name Society at the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, in Anacostia, of which the Rev. F. M. W. Schneeweiss is pastor. The flying squadron gave its usual demonstration of zeal and work.

A turkey dinner and rally was held by the newly organized branch of the Holy Name Society in St. Mary's Church, Rockville. The principal speakers were the Rev. Charles R. O'Hara, pastor, and Edward Brand, an attorney, who talked on the unemployment situation.

One Day Retreat.

The first one-day retreat for high-school girls was given last Sunday by the Rev. Thomas Chetwood, of Georgetown University, at the Washington Retreat House, conducted by the Franciscan Sisters of the Atonement.

The retreat was conducted as a preparation for Christmas, but under the guidance of Father Chetwood it became a preparation for a loyal service.

The next week-end retreat will be from January 16 to January 18, and be conducted by the Rev. Dom Benedict Brosnahan.

Following custom, St. Augustine's Catholic Church will hold its Christmas carol service at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the church, on Fifteenth street, between L and M streets. The sanctuary choir of St. Augustine's will sing.

Sentence Sermon

By The REV. PERCY FOSTER HALL

(Rector of St. Paul's Church, Alexandria, Va.)

"BEAR YE ONE ANOTHER'S BURDENS"—Galatians 6:2.

THE Rev. Dr. Venerable consulted his aged wife,

"My shoe is worn. My foot strikes the ground. I dare not take cold. What shall I do?"

She made answer. "Tony Angelo sits in his stuffy basement all day, cobbling. I will take him your shoe; and at 4 o'clock you shall have it newly soled."

When Tony's wife suggested meat for dinner, Tony cried: "Can I shoot game or slaughter cattle?" "No need," said Mrs. Tony." The big butcher man, he stand in his cold store all day. He will saw and slice and chop and trim and wrap, just what we want."

But the big butcher man was very glum. "Trouble," he groaned, "plenty. They threaten to take away my lease. Ruin, it means." "Cheer up," said Mrs. Tony. "I know a lawyer, clever and honest. He'll save your lease." And he did.

The clever lawyer went home that night and found a white-lipped daughter. "Father, the baby is ill. You are so wise. Tell me what to do." But the lawyer was now helpless. His heart felt like a stone, till he bethought him of the young doctor. To the telephone. In ten minutes the doctor was there. In ten minutes more they were reassured and laughing at their fright.

But that night the brilliant doctor sat, a stricken man. His conscience cried "sinner" He was ashamed, remorseful. In his agony, the peaceful face of Dr. Venerable rose before him. Perhaps he could help. And presently in the quiet parsonage, contrition and confession led to the peace of pardon.

"We that are strong ought to bear the burdens of the weak."

Who are strong? Who are weak?

In the above sketch, all five men were weak; and all five were strong!

It is a picture of civilization; division of labor.

None of us is sufficient of himself to help himself. Nor do we try to be. Only the lone dweller in some far mountain shack tries that.

"Bear ye one another's burdens" is not only the "Law of Christ;" it is the law of community life, interdependence. We are glad of it. It is a law of happiness. "Happiness is a fleeting will-o'-the-wisp, never caught by him who consciously pursues it. The nearest approach to it in this world is in self-forgetfulness for others' good."

Truer words were never spoken. Let Christmas echo them in our hearts.

"Bear ye one another's burdens."

CHURCH TO DEDICATE CHIMES TOMORROW

National City Christian Will Have Tower Group of 25 Tones.

ONE SET IS AUTOMATIC

Tomorrow morning at the National City Christian Church, of which Dr. Earle Wilfley is minister, a set of tower chimes will be dedicated, the gift of Lewis Eugene Grigsby, of Los Angeles, in memory of his wife, Emma Miller Grigsby. The chimes will serve to complete to the edifice which was dedicated in October.

The chimes consist of 25 tones, the largest set made by the J. C. Deagan Co., Chicago. With it almost any musical number can be played, secular and classical, as well as hymns. The set has an electrical automatic player, clock-controlled, which may be set for a concert at any desired hour. It is played from hand-recorded perforated rolls.

Noonday, vesper and curfew concerts may thus be arranged without personal operation of the chimes. There is also a Westminster chiming device, which sounds the Westminster peal on the quarter.

The dedication service will begin with a chimes prelude at 10:45, played by Neil D. Caner, Philadelphia, who will play also a 15-minute postlude program at the close of the morning service. Dr. J. T. T. Hundley, president of Lynchburg College, will preach and conduct the service of dedication, in the absence of Dr. Wilfley, who is recuperating from an illness.

At the evening service Dr. Hundley will preach again. There will be a special musical program arranged by W. E. Braithwaite and Mrs. Helen M. Turley, directors of the church choir and chapel choir, respectively, which will sing Christmas carols antiphonally.

Grace Lutheran Will Give Christmas Program

CASH FOR VETERANS.

There are two motives behind the movement in Congress to convert veterans' compensation certificates into cash. The first is a belief that the distribution of this sum throughout the country would bring an immediate turn toward normal business. Representative Garner, in announcing his plan for making compensation immediately available, expressed belief that it "would be an important factor in restoring the economic balance and mitigating the effects of the widespread depression." Mr. Garner offers a plan whereby veterans could cash their certificates at any time, receiving the original settlement, plus 4 per cent interest. The same motive is doubtless behind the Patman bill which would authorize payment of the entire value of the certificates.

A second motive behind this general movement is a desire to relieve actual distress among veterans. Thousands of veterans are numbered among the unemployed. Some of them have wives and children to support. Some are just being released from Government hospitals without prospects of work. They face a real emergency in their lives, and their need for help is perhaps as acute as it ever will be. Why should not some of the compensation allowed these veterans by the Government be made available to carry them through their distress?

The desire to dissipate veterans' endowments for the sake of stimulating business is reprehensible in the extreme. When Congress granted former service men compensation for their war service it was considered unwise to hand over to them the entire amount in cash. Such a fund of ready money would have exposed veterans to swindlers and quacks. For the same reason Congress will not likely be willing to vote for complete liquidation of these certificates now.

Since the Government can borrow money at less than 2 per cent, financing of any arrangement for partial payment does not seem to be a major problem. To decide the issue on the basis of stimulating business would be unworthy of Congress. Whatever is done ought to be solely for the best interests of the veterans in question.

Representative Fish has introduced a bill, providing for payment of one-fourth the value of the certificates. Such a plan would guard against dissipation of these endowments, and at the same time would relieve actual suffering and distress in many cases. The arrangement could be made optional so that veterans would not be obliged to cash any part of their holdings before maturity. Perhaps an option of partial payment is the most reasonable solution.

TWO CAPITAL BUILDERS.

In announcing the probable acquisition by the Government of a square near the Capitol to be used for park and building purposes Senator Keyes states that no additional appropriations are needed for pushing building construction in Washington next year. He does hope, however, that Congress will pass the Keyes-Elliott bill to speed up the procedure in preparing plans, making ground tests and awarding contracts.

The square to be acquired is bound by Maryland avenue, D street, First and Second streets northeast. It includes the Methodist Building. It is adjacent to the new Supreme Court site, and should be assimilated into the parking system surrounding the Capitol.

Under the energetic and far-sighted leadership of Representative Elliott, of Indiana, as chairman of the committee on public buildings and grounds, the United States Government is finally well advanced upon a public building program that will make the District of Columbia the most imposing city in the world. The work should have been undertaken years ago. Millions have been lost in rentals of dilapidated and unsuitable structures, while the price of real estate has been steadily rising. Now the Government must expend extra large sums in order to house the departments, courts and independent establishments. But the work now under way is well planned, and the new buildings will be enduring as well as beautiful.

There has been much criticism of the leisurely fashion with which the Treasury has dealt with public building construction. Granting that the department is helpless in the matter of expediting legal proceedings looking to the condemnation of sites, it is believed in Congress that much time could be saved in the preparation of plans and in awarding contracts. The Keyes-Elliott bill would not have been introduced if this opinion were not entertained by the chairmen of the public building committees.

Senator Keyes is entitled to share with Representative Elliott the credit for pushing through the great Government building program. They have been indefatigable in attending to thousands of details in the preparation of legislation. Exhaustive hearings, personal examination of sites and vigilant piloting of bills through Congress have consumed their time and energy. The knowledge that their names will be connected with the history of the creation of a magnificent National Capital is a part of their reward for unselfish public service.

HE IS HIS OWN THIRD PARTY.

Just as we expected! Senator Norris refuses to join a third party. He recognizes in Prof. John Dewey a patriot of inaccessible virtue, but he does not share in Prof. Dewey's enthusiasm over the project of creating a "liberal" party.

A third party, in Senator Norris' opinion, would soon run into the same old rut in which the two old parties are staggering to their doom. A third party would cost money. A third party has no perquisites to offer. How could a senator belonging to a tail-end party hope to hold a fat committee chairmanship? Look at Brother Shipstead.

Senator Norris is convinced, however, that it would be a good thing to abolish the electoral college. He undertook the task of demolition once, but was turned away from it by the pleas of fair ladies who aspired to become graduates of the electoral college. But now he will resume the undertaking, as soon as Congress convenes. The wrecking will take some time, but it will have to be done. It is more important than abolition of the lame-duck sessions of Congress.

By abolishing the electoral college the people would have an opportunity to bolt from all parties and elect an independent candidate for President. Under the present system the people are denied the opportunity to choose their own President. They must accept any old corruptionist foisted upon them by the criminal gangsters who control the party machines. Abolish the college, and the election of President would be determined by popular vote.

Whether or not Senator Norris would establish presidential primaries is not disclosed. Presumably he favors primaries, as he took advantage of the senatorial primary to declare himself a Republican in order to obtain the Republican nomination. Of course, he was not in earnest about it; he assumed the role of a Republican merely to be elected. However, he might be disposed to do away with the machinery of a presidential primary, inasmuch as he is no longer a candidate for the Presidency.

Senator Norris can bring powerful arguments to bear in favor of abolition of the electoral college. He can cite candidates who were tail-enders in the popular vote and yet elected President by the electoral college. The electoral college is really only a ghost of the old system of States. Since the States are disappearing, it is well to lay the ghost. Control of the Government by the people is the thing—instantaneous control, by popular independent vote sweeping aside political parties. Once in control of their Government, the people can make the Government support them, manufacture free fertilizer for them, distribute electric power to them at less than cost, boost the tariff for farmers and deny it for industry, hand out bread and marmalade to the poor, and bring in the New Jerusalem generally. Why should Americans stand by and see Soviet Russia make all the progress in the world?

The country would be greatly benefited if Senator Norris would concentrate his energy and great persuasive powers upon the single task of abolishing the electoral college. If he will confine himself to that task, and dismiss all others, he will be cheerfully recognized as the Third Party, all by himself, and he can hire and fire the executive director of his national committee without a word of protest arising from the great American people.

BANK RUNS INSPIRED BY REDS.

Charges that Communists in New York are conducting organized propaganda campaigns against banks ought to be probed to the bottom. It is well known that the reds see in the current business depression an opportunity to assault "capitalism." They lose no chance of embarrassing their enemies. Apparently this agitation against financial institutions is a part of the broader movement of destruction, which includes dumping of Soviet products on world markets and short selling on the grain exchanges.

The State banking department of New York is said to have definitely traced a run on one bank to rumors spread by Communists. The red agents circulate among crowds in stores and cafes, or on the streets, whispering that a certain bank is insolvent and will be closed. They depend upon the gossiping habit of mankind to spread these false reports and bring about a run of depositors on the institution in question. A run on one bank began just two hours after the banking department had learned that it had become the victim of a Communist whispering campaign.

This outrageous campaign is not directed against the stronger banks. The reds direct their attention to institutions doing business with individuals who know little about finance and may, therefore, be easily stampeded without any reason. Communist meetings are said to have plotted openly against such institutions.

This is an example of what may be expected from the admittance of Communist agitators to the United States. This red propaganda doubtless was inspired from Moscow, as are all other communistic plots against the economic structure of the United States. Why are these agitators allowed to remain at large in the United States? The Department of Labor has launched a campaign to deport alien criminals. Difficulty is encountered in deporting thes ered parasites, but they could be put to work on prison rock piles while awaiting deportation. This situation invites the attention of the Department of Labor quite as much as does Chicago's gangdom.

CHRISTMAS TRAGEDIES.

George Bernard Shaw is not the only one who sees horror in Christmas. The compilers of holiday accident statistics attempt, by the addition of tragedy to calamity, to show that Christmas takes a dreadful toll of life by violence. More than two hundred persons met death by accident in the United States on December 25 this year. These tragedies are exaggerated in the public mind, because of the sentiment that attaches to Christmastide.

As a matter of fact the compilers must have overlooked a good many accidental deaths this year. If they have not, Christmas was freer from accidents than is the ordinary day. On the average more than 260 persons are killed by accident every day in this country, or a total of about 95,000 annually. Apparently about 60 lives were saved by the celebration of Christmas.

Tragedy in the midst of rejoicing is spectacular. For that reason accidents on Christmas and other holidays are brought to public attention, while on other days deaths by accidental means attract only local attention. Some of the mishaps which occur on holidays are unusual. A father, sharing the excitement of his children over Santa Claus' visit, pours gasoline in the stove. Precaution is sometimes lacking in the use of Christmas tree candles. In the exhilaration of the day people sometimes abandon safety rules which they observe faithfully every other day in the year. In view of this psychological factor it is surprising that the holiday accident rate is not higher than it is.

A large percentage of holiday accidents result from automobile crashes. This is to be expected. Traffic is always heavier on a holiday. Scores are killed on the streets, instead of in their places of employment. Drownings, hunting tragedies and the like take the place of industrial accidents. People fall victims to carelessness at play rather than at work.

Most holiday accidents could be prevented, but the same is true of all accidents. Casualties enumerated this Christmas amount to but a small fraction of 1 per cent of the accidents suffered in this country during the year. They signify only a general need for greater caution.

AN INSULT TO THE SOUTH

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A writer in one of the big Eastern dailies, who is described as an "able political correspondent," is quoted as saying concerning the 1932 presidential election: "The wetness of the Democratic candidate and the Democratic platform is really settled now. There is no way out of it. * * * Regardless of merits, principles * * * (or) convictions * * * the Democratic side must be the wet side. * * * Everybody concedes these Southern States are safely Democratic with any Protestant candidate, no matter how wet." He thinks that this is their only chance to win.

The meaning of this can only be that this "able political correspondent" thinks that the people of the South will not consider the "merits" of the case in selecting their candidate and writing their platform, whether they are good or bad, right or wrong—that they will throw all their "principles" to the winds, as well as their "convictions" on the question of prohibition, and vote for a wet platform and any wet candidate whom the Northern and Eastern wet Democrats will name, provided he is a Protestant. This, to me, is absolutely unbelievable, and, to my thinking, this "able political correspondent," who is probably one of John J. Raskob's paid publicity agents, will find that he never was further from the truth in his life.

Are the people of the South the kind who are indifferent as to the "merits" of their candidate or platform? Do they care for nothing but the spoils of office? Are they a people without "principle," as this writer charges, who will throw to the winds their "convictions" of right and wrong, wisdom or folly, in order to win a political victory? They certainly are not. In this our "able political correspondent" grossly slanders the people of the South.

The South has repeatedly and persistently shown itself to be dry, as a matter of principle, and all self-respecting Southern Democrats will indignantly resent the bruiting abroad of this baseless insult that the South is "safely Democratic," even though the Democrats of Northern and Eastern wet centers should, by any chance, foist upon them a wet candidate and a wet platform; as though Southern people do not think for themselves and have no convictions by which they are guided, and will allow the liquor interests of the North and East to run roughshod over them.

To say that a man will pursue a given course of action regardless of its merits—as to whether it is good or bad, and that he will cast aside his "principles" and "convictions" is to say that he will ignore the question of whether a proposed action is good or bad, right or wrong, honest or dishonest, and whether or not it violates the rights of property. In that case you have the stuff out of which a thief is made, or a bank robber, a hijacker, a perjurer, or any other sort of criminal. Criminals can not be made out of any other sort of material. A man who cares nothing for the merits and principles of right or wrong involved in his actions is, at heart, a potential criminal who is capable of committing any crime that he thinks he can get away with.

And this is the baseless charge that this "able political correspondent" thrusts wholesale at the people of the South. If he does it purposely he is a malicious monger of vile slanders, whose vulgar mouthings no respectable paper should publish. If he does it unwittingly he is densely ignorant of the nature of the Southern people, whom alone he singles out for this insolent indignity.

Of all the insults that were ever hurled at the Southern people this is among the grossest, the vilest, the most poignant and the most malicious. If our people in the South are the sort that he describes, who in their conduct will ignore "merit" and "principles" of right and wrong, morality and immorality, honesty and dishonesty, they are at heart potential criminals and are of all people on earth the most despicable. They are unfit for citizenship or even to associate with respectable people.

The paper that published those vulgar mouthings of this "able political correspondent" owes the people of the South an apology for the insult to them it carried in its columns and the correspondent himself will make an abject retraction if he has left any sense of justice, or any sort of respect for the Southern people.

In forecasting what will happen in the 1932 presidential election it would be well for the wet Democrats to reflect that in 1928 the Democrats of the South demonstrated that they were willing to forsake even the traditions and party affiliations of a lifetime to register their disapproval of a wet candidate and that they would not cast aside their "principles" and "convictions" on election day. There are millions of the same sort of Democrats in the South today. In fact, a determined dry sentiment has been rapidly growing of late in both the South and North; supported, as it is, by the dictates of economic sanity, scientific research and the moral and business leadership of the country. Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

MY DEAR LOUISE—Today I read a little article by Bruce Barton in which he said: "Soon or late we have to face the fact that life is a fight, not a picnic."

On the supposition that you read it also, and believed it, I am writing this to provide an antidote for the poison.

I think I know something of life. At forty-three a man doesn't know it all, but mere years count for less than experience. I have worked for a boss and have "run" a business of my own. I have had more money than was good for me and I have gone hungry day after day for want of any money at all. I have been a foreman over numbers of workmen and I have been a mere cog in an organization that required unquestioning obedience to all "superiors." I have been offered good jobs I couldn't accept because I had one as good, and I have walked the dusty road from town to town looking for a job. I have been the big frog in the pool, and I have been such a small frog that any attempt to express my opinion was regarded as unpardonable impudence.

And if the winnowing of that experience has left a kernel of wisdom it is this: that life is not a fight unless you are trying to get money at any cost or trying to get more than you deserve.

Life will seem a fight—the kind of fight dogs engage in when several of them covet the same bone—if you are so foolish as to assume that the business of life is getting instead of living.

And, of course, it will be a fight if you are determined to get something you haven't earned and don't deserve, for you can't get things unfairly except by trickery or force.

But that kind of life isn't life at all. It is a mere wasting of life. It is a slavery to greed. It is storm and strife and struggle without reason or purpose that common sense can justify. It is as senseless as war. It is like the folly of a crow that steals trinkets it can not use.

Given health, there is nothing to keep you from getting and enjoying the things you need—nothing, that is, except laziness, stupidity, and a hateful disposition.

If you are foolish enough to think life a failure unless you have more play-pretties than your neighbors, then you must fight.

But if you have wit enough to enjoy being alive, fairness enough not to expect more than you are worth, and common sense enough to relish your bit of cake without making envious comparisons, life will give you all you need in return for reasonable service and you needn't growl or snap a single time. Love, DAD.

PRO AND CON

A Democratic View.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

With too much of everything on his shoulders, the President's staggering load is made heavier by the chairmanship of the Republican national committee. It is a sad story. Dr. Work, who purportedly occupied the place during the campaign, was generally regarded as a useless piece of bric-a-brac and, in the fullness of time, was succeeded by "a man of destiny," Claudius Huston, whom party leaders are hoping everybody has forgotten. Then came Senator Fess, an ad interimeter, supposedly, who already has spoken embarrassingly out of turn. Now the heir presumptive, Robert H. Lucas, a person of political experience and accounted sagacity, might be called the little brother of the Nebraska grocery clerk with whom the anti-Norris junta tried to shortchange the people of Nebraska.

Wooden Horse in G. O. P. Troy.

Minneapolis Tribune.

If it is all right for Senator Norris to vote consistently against Republican plans and programs, to do his level best to wreck a Republican administration and to bolt the Republican party in campaigns in which he himself doesn't happen to be running, then why is it not all right for the Republican party, in its own turn, to bolt Senator Norris?

That is the question naturally raised by the frank admission—aye, the proud admission—of Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, that he spent $4,000 of his own funds on campaign material designed to persuade Nebraska Republicans to bolt Senator Norris at the polls last November.

Saving on Federal Leases.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

Senator Blaine did the taxpayers a good turn when he succeeded in having the Postoffice appropriation bill returned to conference, because it failed to contain a provision for competitive bidding for leases on post-office garages. The senator objected on the ground that favorites were allowed to mulct the Treasury of from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 each year on garage leases. The sum involved is comparatively small, but in this day when there is need for strict economy on the part of every branch of the Government, it is important that every dime possible be saved.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Liberal and Conservative Parties to Supplant Republican and Democratic Organizations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What is a Republican and what is a Democrat is a question much discussed nowadays since the revelations disclosed by the Nye committee. Mr. Lucas says Senator Norris is not a Republican, and the latter retorts that he is not a Republican since the principles of the party of Lincoln of which he claims allegiance have been abandoned. Senator Norris is not the only Republican senator who disagrees with the policies or principles of the present Republican party. There was, for instance, the late Senator La Follette and, it might be mentioned, his heir in the Senate.

Which reminds me that when the Underwood tariff bill was before the House of Representatives William Jennings Bryan came to town to discuss its schedules at a conference with the Democratic members of the ways and means committee, at which the writer acted as his secretary. When the conference was over Bryan, who had to keep an appointment, said to me: "I expect Senator La Follette. When he comes hold him until I return." The senator soon made his appearance, and, being alone in the parlor of the friend's house where the conference was held, I said: "Senator, you are a Bryan Democrat posing as a Republican. Why don't you call yourself a Democrat?" His reply was: "That is true, but if I called myself a Democrat in Wisconsin they wouldn't send me to the Senate. It's better to call yourself a Republican, stay in the Senate and try to reform the party within."

That seems to be the position of Senator Norris and other so-called progressive Republicans.

Party labels have done more to retard progressive legislation in the interest of the people than any other factor, and will continue so long as people call themselves Republicans and Democrats. It's about time those labels were thrown in the discard and that people divided themselves, as is done in England, between Liberals and Conservatives. Time will bring it about. W. J. DWYER.

December 22.

Democrat Repudiates Norris as a Democrat—Says Party Does Not Want Him.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The country at large, both Republicans and Democrats, will heartily applaud and enthusiastically approve the statement issued by Mr. Lucas with respect to the part he played in the Nebraska election of Senator Norris and the attitude the Republican party should assume with respect to this senator. The only exception which any thinking person might make to the statement is the reference therein to the senator being a Democrat. The senator belongs to neither party, and it is to be hoped that our Democratic leaders will hasten to disavow him in no less vigorous terms than those ably and aptly expressed by Mr. Lucas.

There are doubtless a few others in the Senate that could well be labeled in the same class as that to which Senator Norris rightly belongs; and the sooner the two great parties come out and declare themselves with respect to the gentlemen who pose as belonging to one or the other of these parties only when they are seeking reelection, the better it will be for both parties and the whole Nation.

As a Democrat I have frequently deplored the total disregard and party disloyalty which some of the so-called Republicans have constantly shown toward Mr. Hoover and the policies of his party which he has endeavored to carry out. At every turn of the road he has met determined opposition by a few members who claim to be Republicans, but who are, in fact, traitors to that party, and whose sole object seems to be to thwart the will of the people. These same senators, if they should scurry into the Democratic party at election time, would be traitors also to that party as soon as the election was over. A. DEMOCRAT.

Senate Can Not Set Aside Confirmation of Power Commissioners.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: According to the public press some senators want to reconsider the vote confirming the recent appointees on the Federal Power Commission.

It is now too late. Having been confirmed, there is no constitutional authority for reconsideration; and the alleged rule of the Senate that confirmation can be reconsidered, if the motions to reconsider are entered the first day Congress meets after the Christmas recess by senators who voted for the confirmation, is without validity. It is a fact that these men have been confirmed or they have not been confirmed; and if the former, especially if they have been commissioned by the President, their positions are protected by the principle laid down by the Supreme Court in Marbury vs. Madison, 1, Cranch 137; and there is but one of two ways by which they can be removed, namely, by the President (see Myers vs. U. S., decided by the Supreme Court October 25, 1926) or by impeachment as provided for in the Constitution.

Congress appears to act so often as if there were no Constitution that, perhaps, it would not be a bad idea to convert the Senate into a night school for the study of the Constitution under the tutorship of some one who really knows something about it. Or, in view of its constant disregard, maybe we might just as well scrap it altogether as an anachronism and bar to social and economic progress—a light in which it seems to be regarded by so many of our people in and out of public life. A. S. LANIER.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Now that the Washington Monument has been providentially spared the decoration of sunken gardens, it might be well to again emphasize the unadorned beauty of the Unknown Soldier's resting place.

In the craze for monumental buildings, which I am not disparaging, let the city reserve to these two memorials the refinement of simplicity. N. VAN METER.

Davis Children Help to Greet Press Women

Senator's Daughters and Their Toys Brighten Afternoon Tea.

WOMEN who build stories with words mingled yesterday afternoon with little girls who build dream castles out of Christmas toys. For the Women's National Press Club members were guests at tea of Senator and Mrs. James J. Davis whose four little daughters were on hand to make things lively and increase the Christmas cheer which, outside, had "gone glimmering" in a world of mist that developed into a downpour.

With Senator Davis receiving the "women of the press," Mrs. Davis pouring tea for them, and young "Jimmie" hovering about to lend a sportive slant to the talk over the tea cups, the final act to a delightful half hour was a visit to the great solarium where glowed a glorious Christmas tree "which we trimmed ourselves," Joan declared. For Jean, Jane, Joan and Jewel, with the three little girls of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Kelly, ushered everybody to the long, high-windowed room, where wooden soldiers marched in rows and a round dozen new dolls viewed the confusion of countless toys scattered about.

Drawn on the one hand by the hospitality of the hosts, who were assisted by Mrs. Doak, wife of the Secretary of Labor, and Mrs. Kelly and by Miss Esther Jones, of Sharon, Pa., niece and house guest of the senator, and on the other hand by youngsters chattering their lists of presents and names for new dolls, the women who marshal stories into form, found the great drawing rooms almost a dividing line of procedure. But informality ruled, and in the final analysis the feminine reporters learned a great deal about modern styles for doll dresses and "wire pulling" behind the scenes of a miniature theater, instead of the halls of Congress.

If in the Davis home Christmas cheer finds its climax in the nursery, at the home of the Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson the sparkle and brilliance of all that Christmas brings to mind, wavers between the glow of lighted fires within and the magnificence of the enormous Christmas tree with its thousand and one globes, all in white lights, that gleams from the lawns of Woodley.

The sparkling tree, glimpsed from many angles blocks away, is the "heart's desire" of Mrs. Stimson, whose idea it was to trim with white lights the great pine tree which faces their doorstep. Last year the wife of the Secretary planned the "living Christmas tree," but was forced to forego for a year fulfillment of the idea, owing to plans for her departure to London with Secretary Stimson, who headed the American delegation to the naval conference.

The brightly lighted tree will remain for all to see during the holiday season, and it is Mrs. Stimson's plan to continue as an annual custom the lighting of the great pine in the grounds of their estate.

IT now seems that WBAL'S long-dreamed-of every-day-all-day program schedule for which the Baltimore station's director, Frederick R. Huber, has been working for many months, will be in operation by March 1.

In the meanwhile Mr. Huber is busy with a complete revision of WBAL'S program schedule, which will be necessitated by the synchronization of WBAL's transmitter with that of WJZ on certain days in the week.

If the synchronization is successful it will bring WJZ programs into Washington, where at present WRC carries WEAF features mostly.

Can you imagine the enthusiasm of Italians throughout the United States and the interest at the Italian Embassy here if the broadcasters are successful in staging the Mussolini speech from Rome on New Year's Day.

Following the Eveready Hour, which began back in 1923, signing off permanently January 1, the Dutch Masters Minstrels, another pioneer program, will give their last performance tonight (WJZ, 9:30 o'clock).

The romance of electric light and power will be dwelt upon tonight by William Alton Jones, president of the National Electric Light Association and executive chairman of Henry L. Dohery & Co. (WRC, 7:15 p. m.).

Chinese music will dominate the Washington Gas Light Ensemble program tonight (WRC, 6:15 p. m.).

DESERVED New Year promotions come to G. W. Johnstone, manager of the press bureau for N. B. C., who has been assigned to the office of M. H. Aylesworth, and Walter C. Stone, who succeeds him as head of the bureau.

Keeping newspapers supplied with detailed information regarding the hundreds of programs on the air, much of the information having to be written weeks in advance, has grown to be a whale of a job.

Two new series of broadcasts on alternate Sunday nights sponsored respectively by the Victor and Radiola divisions of the R. C. A.-Victor Co., will be inaugurated with the new year. The Victor programs, beginning January 4, will be musical. They will incorporate a new idea in musical presentation, being designed to illustrate the extraordinary variety and scope of modern music in every field today. The Radiola broadcasts will be devoted to the performance of one-act plays by leading authors, in which many of the foremost actors and actresses will appear.

The first will be January 11, "The Camberley Triangle," by A. A. Milne, with Elsie Ferguson and Otis Skinner in the leading roles.

Dare Interprets the MODE

And here's a New Year's Eve party gown which—sh-h-h-h—is especially designed to be turned into a daytime gown after the party if Miladi so wishes! (A Dah-ray dseign.)

Paris, Dec. 26.

WH-O-O-O-OF!

That's exhaust, letting out of the breath for after Christmas relaxation, and an exercise for taking it in again any minute now. Remembering that New Year's Eve party, and the dress you have to buy, beg, borrow or make, catches it up again, doesn't it? These days one doesn't have so many uses for an evening dress, now does one? But you must have one for that party!

So-o-o-o, what to do. Why, be a clever little Dare-ette, and look around, look around. Look around and see how a kindly Dame Fashion has conspired to give us combination dresses, dresses that call themselves "Sunday Night" dresses, and fill in that gap between the long-sleeved afternoon gown, however elegant, and the too decolette evening gown. Dresses that couldn't really be called either one, yet walked in and took the place of both—wearable from noon to the wee small hours of the morning, anywhere.

Patou and Molyneux are very fond of this type of frock, as are Martial et Armand, Redfern, and Heim. And all of the couturieres go in for the short-sleeved or sleeveless gown with its little accompanying jacket, oddly constructed and completely disguising.

• • • •

As I said, the clever woman uses her head, these days, as well as her good taste and style sense—and manages.

• • • •

Speaking of managing! Now I tell you, here's the most helpful idea we have given you yet! A delightful evening gown for your New Year's party, based on a most flattering, slimming and stunning gown from Paris that originally cost five hundred good round dollars which you can either make yourself from our leflet, or have your dressmaker make for you. And the detailed directions for how to make it over right after the party, into a lovely day-time dress, all sleeved and right as to skirt length and everything!

And, without buying a single speck more of material. And as though all that weren't gorlicious enough—the dress takes the just exactly 4 yards of material! ! Yes, it's long as to skirt, as an evening gown should be. Better send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post, right this minute—you can never tell when you will simply have to have an evening gown, and won't want or need it after that one occasion, you know.

• • • •

And what do you think? There it exactly is, in today's illustration—back and front! That's the one I tell you how to make and how to make over, in the leaflet. Yes, 4 yards of material, and you have seen the design before, because it is from a famous Paris Couturiere—who won't care if I tell you how to make it—that is, if he doesn't catch me. Better cut out and save the drawing, and then send for the leaflet.

We know you'll enjoy Dare's weekly fashion letter. Look for it tomorrow in the big Sunday Post.

Au revoir!

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

IF December 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., and from 3 p. m. to 6 p. m. The adverse period is from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m.

The astrological indications on December 27 point to a day of negative results and a depressed condition of mind. It is advisable to keep to routine work and not attempt to branch out in any fresh field of endeavor. After sunset, optimism will replace pessimism and the outlook will be cheerful.

Children born on this December 27 will be of affectionate natures, and, as they grow into adulthood, they will acquire ambition, and an earnest desire to accmplish something worth while. They will not be successes at school, but promise to attain much in after years.

You were born under favorable auspices. Endowed with more than average intelligence, gifted with quick perception, and surrounded by a good environment, you had it in you to accomplish much. The fact that you today are still only on the threshold of success is attributable to indecision of character. You daily with all issues, and blow hot and cold. Anything you have done has been through circumstances beyond your control, and not of your own election.

Your disposition is a good one. You are cheerful and, withal, modest. You never claim to be anything other than what you are, and, realizing your limitations, you never attempt to widen your horizon. Your habits—and you are largely a creature of habit—are regular. Your thoughts are all inspired by a desire to be generous and tolerant. You speculate very much on the mysteries of life—without, of course, solving any of their problems—and, after all your mediation, you can not make up your mind to believe or disbelieve.

You are very straightforward, and a kindly candor characterizes your utterances and consideration for others marks your actions. In the life of the home, you will never be the leader. You, probably, will be led, as time will accustom you to having your mind made up for you.

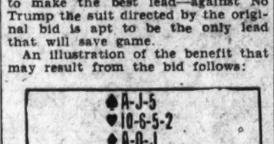
WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge beginner).

One important point for the Auction Bridge beginner to remember is that bidding five-card suits headed by Ace-King works well in a majority of hands even when there is no strength on the side. Such bids have a tendency to shut out No Trump bids by second hand and to encourage partner; even when they are overcalled, they place partner in position to make the best lead—against No Trump the suit directed by the original bid is apt to be the only lead that will save game.

An illustration of the benefit that may result from the bid follows:



If playing on the basis of the Common Sense System, South would bid one Club, West would pass and North at Auction Bridge would bid one No Trump and obtain the contract.

At Contract Bridge North would bid two No Trumps over South's one Club; and South, having more than shown by his original bid, would venture three No Trumps.

If using a system which would bar an original bid by South because he holds no side tricks, all four players would pass and the hand would be thrown out.

In the play with North the Declarer and No Trump the contract, East's opening lead would be a small Spade. North would win with the Jack and lead a Club, South finessing the Jack and losing to West, who would return the Spade. North would win with the Ace of Spades and lead a second Club which South would win.

Then counting his tricks Declarer would see that, in addition to the two Spades and four Clubs of which he was assured, he would need three Diamonds to make game; and to win those three Diamonds it would be necessary to lead twice from the South hand so that the North hand can finesse twice. Consequently before leading the third Club South would lead a Diamond; North would win and put South in with the third Club, and then South would cash his Clubs and lead another Diamond, which would make game.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me the correct name of the sensitive plant.

HELEN G. K.

Mimosa pudica. This plant is a weed in the tropics. The drooping of the leaves when touched is due to a very rapid loss of water from the cells in the plant at the point where you touch it.

Can the calla lily be grown in water and pebbles?

MRS. KATHERINE G.

No. The calla lily while it prefers an abundance of water while making growth in the fall requires to be baked by the sun in summer. From June until September keep the pot turned on its side outside. In September the bulb must be repotted in fresh soil. While growing and setting buds, the plant should be given some well-rotted cow manuer.

Is it well for me to use nitrate of soda for feeding house plants. I am an amateur gardener and have purchased five expensive house plants this winter and do not want to neglect or lose them.

MOLLEY G. D.

Nitrate of soda is a dangerous fertilizer to advise, but if used with caution it will encourage root growth and increase the size of the flowers. However, I would not recommend its use unless you are an experienced grower. It should never be used for sickly or resting plants and the only possible time when it should be used for house plants is when an amaryllis is setting buds or for a rapidly growing fern. Then it must not be permitted to touch the foliage, as it will burn it. I really think it should not be used by any one but a skilled horticulturist.

I live as you see in a rather cold part of the country, yet I want outside window boxes that will withstand our climate?

A NEW HOUSE OWNER.

Plants recommended for your locality are limited to Norway spruce, the red cedar (juniperus virginiana) and American arborvitae. For trailers use English ivy. Even these plants, hardy as they are, are not always dependable in sections of the country where you have prolonged spells of weather with the thermometer registering 10 degrees below zero.

Why do the buds at times persist in dropping from my Christmas cactus? They only do this occasionally. After possibly a dozen have fallen off from apparently no reason, the remaining ones will open normally.

MRS. SARAH McK.

Please tell me why the leaves of so many of my house plants other than foliage plants get a peculiar gray color.

MR. THOMAS F.

If the foliage of plants turns grayish they are usually suffering from red spider. You can also detect red spider by a tiny web which appears about the tips of the branches. Unless the spiders are present in large numbers you hardly see them. These pests thrive in a warm, dry atmosphere. The best method of eradicating them is to constantly spray your plants with cold water.

Is it possible to have argeratum bloom in the house in winter?

RUTH P.

Yes, if you cut your plant back before bringing it into the house and pot it in a very small pot. It is subject to red spider, however, and should be sprayed daily with cold water.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

She Will Not Leave Her Mother.

THE condition known as adult infantilism manifests itself in many ways, but never more certainly than in the girl who wants to marry but can not bring herself to abandon the parental roof and maternal authority in favor of a home of her own. The man who meets this situation would be wise to relinquish his interest in the girl. Jerry tells his experiences with this phenomenon, and his story is a warning to any lover facing a like situation.

Dear Frances McDonald: Am I the cad I have been told I am? I have just asked to be released from my engagement to a girl whom I certainly loved once. However, her ideas were not mine. Now her family can not find words harsh enough for me. Are they justified? I met them two summers ago at the shore. They were delightful people and we took to each other. After six months I asked the girl to marry me and she assented. Her folks went forward with the preparations for the wedding. Naturally I began to discuss where we would live. She was all astonishment. She would never leave her mother; I thought this amusing and said so. She became tearful. Her mother was brought into it and agreed with the girl. I thought them all cuckoo. They lived in a small city apartment. I mentioned that fact and the girl said they could move to one big enough for all. This was far from my idea of a home and I said so. She replied that no place would be a home to her if her mother were not there.

I talked to the father and he said he had always found it best to humor a woman and suggested that I "let the women decide." I frankly told him that he could live his life after that fashion if he chose but I never would. He then told me that he had been forced to live with his wife's folks for the very same reason for over 20 years. Can you imagine it? I make $80 a week. I can afford to enjoy some of the comforts of life. Why should I crowd in with a strange family just because I marry the daughter?

After three months of constant argument and endless tears I saw I could never make either the girl or her mother see sense and I asked them to release me. The clamor that arose I will never forget. The father then told me that I never could have cared for the girl or I would certainly never have given her up. The girl is now ill with a nervous breakdown and they are saying the most awful things about my "barbarous" behavior. Was I barbarous? Was I even unreasonable? I spoke to the girl's doctor as I was so concerned over the whole thing and he said it was just as well. He said she would never be well until she got away from her people and she would never do that. I have had many a bad hour thinking about it all and especially after some one tells me some of the things that family think of me. So I would like an unbiased opinion. Was I right or wrong?

JERRY.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

THE significance of certain phases of high blood pressure comes to us by reason of a study of a large number of convicts in a penitentiary, made by Drs. Alvarez and Stanley. Among their conclusions are the following:

The systolic pressure, commonly called the blood pressure, is normal over a range between 90 and 140. As a rule, any pressure between these limits calls for no special consideration.

The blood pressure is not a proper measure of age. Nor is age a proper measure of blood pressure. The theory that the expected blood preshure increases about one point for each added two years of life is wrong, at least in certain of its phases. Other things being equal, the blood pressure is the same at ages twenty and forty. If a man has a high pressure at forty years of age the probability is that he had one, and about the same one, at twenty years of age.

In a study of blood pressure in young people made several years ago, Dr. Alvarez established that a pressure of 120 at age 20 was far from being constant among healthy young people. Increase in blood pressure after age forty is of much more importance than it is in younger people.

In persons over forty years of age overweight is a factor in high blood pressure.

Thick, stocky, short-necked men are no more liable than young people of other builds to develop high blood pressure and to die from apoplexy. This interests me because when I entered a certain medical college the first lecture I heard was by a thick, stocky, short-necked professor, and his subject was apoplexy. He told us that men of his build could expect to pass out by the apoplexy route. He proved his point by dying of apoplexy eight hours later.

Drs. Alvarez and Stanley could not find evidence that indulgence in alcoholic beverages or having had syphilis was a cause of high blood pressure. The use of tobacco did not get a clean bill of health from them.

It was less prevalent among convicts than Alvarez has found it among free citizens of the same age and of fairly comparable groups. Convicts, with bed, board and work assured, seem to be better adjusted to life and less disposed to worry than are men who engage in the competitions and strife of community life.

Blood pressure tends to rise in cold weather and to fall in warm.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

OLD SONG.

An old Hungarian song tells the following story:

A youth once loved a wicked woman. She asked for his mother's heart for a plaything. He carried out her wishes.

Running to bring the heart to his love he tripped against a stone and fell. The heart dropped from his hands and rolled in the dust.

Lying there it spoke, "Are you hurt, my son?"

It is an old song but its theme is even older. Mother love has always been sung as the ultimate devotion of which human nature is capable.

A mother must forgive every fault, every sin, even that final one when her child turns from her in preferences for a newcomer.

There comes a time in every mother's life when she must give up her children. She must prepare for this.

Mothers must not be selfish. However, she should advise her children and if she sees them forming love for unfit companions she must prevent it.

The tragedy of mother love is inescapable. Early bonds must be broken to give place to a relationship that grants to the child his emotional freedom.

The mother who tries to hold her son in all the closeness of the childhood relationship through adolescence and into adult life compels him at last to break from her with the feeling that he is doing a thing which may well be symbolically expressed as the tearing of her heart from her breast.

CELERY FRITTERS.

(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

2 cups finely cut celery.
1¾ cups sifted wheat flour.
1 cup milk.
1 egg.
¾ teaspoon salt.
2 teaspoons baking powder.

Sift together the flour, salt and baking powder, add the beaten egg and milk, then the celery. Fry by spoonfuls in a well greased skillet. Drain on an absorbent paper and serve hot.

CREAMED CELERY.

Clean the celery and cut in pieces about three-quarters of an inch long. Cook in a small quantity of boiling salted water for fifteen to twenty minutes, or until tender. Drain and combine with white sauce made in the proportion of two tablespoons flour and two tablespoons butter to one cup of milk. Season and serve at once. A few of the tender leaves of the celery may be minced and scattered over the top to make the dish look attractive. The tougher stalks of celery from several bunches may be used in this way and the hearts served raw.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood—Raymond Griffith believes that the pen, to paraphrase, is mightier than the voice and so has turned scenario writer after a long period of semiretirement.

RAYMOND GRIFFITH

The silk-hatted Griffith was one of the foremost comedy stars of silent pictures. Many will remember his comedy in "Hands Up," "The Yankee Consul," "You'd Be Surprised" or other of his outstanding films.

A business disagreement about four years ago resulted in his screen demise. His attempted comeback in talkies met with not unexpected failure because he is able scarcely to speak above a whisper.

Many years ago on the stage Griffiht ruptured his vocal cords, and since his voice has been impaired.

He was in two short comedies in the last two years, and he did a creditable bit of acting as the dying French soldier in "All Quiet on the Western Front."

Not New to Him.

Now he is preparing a story for the screen called "The Devil Was Sick," which will star Frank Fay. After Griffith left the stage and before he entered pictures as a player he was a scenario writer; so the business is not exactly new to him.

Griffith is credited with applying new twists to the well-used pieces of movie business that helped put him over. His theory that a good joke is never too ancient to tell again has worked well.

"I'll take the old stuff and make it look like new," he used to explain, "and the other fellows can think up new gags to experiment with. I know people will laugh at the gags I use because they always have."

Such candor in Hollywood is unusual.

YOUR NAME
What Does It Mean?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

The family name "Slocum" is of English origin, being derived from the Old English "sla-cumb," meaning "sloe-valley." It is obvious, therefore, that this name was first applied to persons who lived at or near a valley in which sloe-trees grew. In a few cases, however, it has been found that "Slocum" is a contraction of "Slow-come," which was sometimes given as a nickname to sluggards. This name does not seem to occur in the earliest records. Some of its more common variations are "Slocombe," "Slocumb," "Slocomb" and "Slocom."

The family name "Varney" is a variation of the older forms "Vernay" and "Verney." This name occurs in the oldest English records, but it is of French and ultimately of Celtic origin. Its full significance is "he who lives at or near the alder-grove." There are several places called "Vernay" in France, but the town which has most often given rise to the family name is St. Paul-de-Vernay, in Calvados, Normandy. In the Hundred Rolls, the famous thirteenth century list of English names, mention is made of Lucya de Vernai, Simon de Vernay and Ralph de Verney.

The family name "Usher" (also spelled "Ussher") has come into English through the Old French form "Ussier." Its ultimate source is the Latin "ostiarius," which means "the doorkeeper." The modern French equivalent of this name is "Ihuissier." A certain Peter le Usser is mentioned in the Hundred Rolls. There is a popular belief that "Usser" is of Celtic origin. Such is not the case, however, although the name was introduced into Ireland at a very early date.

SCRAMBLE RECIPE PRIZES WON BY 30

More Than 1,000 Housewives Competed in Second Contest in Series.

ANSWERS IN POETRY

Thirty winners forged past the goal posts in the second big contest of the scrambled recipes series which closed on Thursday, December 18. The recipes were those printed in The Washington Post on the previous Saturday and more than 1,000 housewives not only in Washington but wherever The Washington Post circulates competed for the substantial prizes offered by this newspaper to stimulate interest in domestic science among American women.

Even more originality was exhibited in many of the entries than was noted in the first contest. Another outstanding feature of this second contest was to be found in the fact that generally more evidence of care having been taken in the preparation of the answers could be seen. "It is not as easy as it looks," declared one Washington housewife who brought in her entry in person. "To solve these scrambled recipes requires a really thorough knowledge of cookery, especially in regard to proportions. As every one knows, proportions play a tremendous part in successful cookery."

Stumbles on Secret.

This contestant had stumbled, unwittingly perhaps, upon one of the secrets of the contest. It is not enough to guess the ingredients themselves, but you must know, in order to win, how much of each article should be included in your recipe.

It was inspiring to learn from some of the entries that a number of the contestants tried out the recipes before they sent in their answers. This was the real way to be sure of the answers.

Answers on Green Asbestos.

Novel ways were taken by many to present their solutions. For instance, one winner of a $10 prize printed her answers on bright green asbtestos plate holders, all tucked away in a green oilcloth holder. Several of the contestants were inspired to versifying about the recipes. Among the poems received were these:

"For those of us who care for fish
Salmon loaf is just the dish!
All those whose tastes in pastries lie,
Twill gladden their hearts, this pumpkin pie.
With dishes of small and great renown,
This maple mousse can hold its own!"

And still another poet of the kitchen tells us:

"Many pumpkins now are canned;
All are stewed and some are panned.
But most good pumpkins, when they die,
Eventually
Are Pumpkin Pie."

"In this day
Of employment
It is not Surprising to
See even a salmon loaf!"

"My French being hazy I have never known Whether it is moose or mouse."

Enjoys Food Pages.

From one of the contestants came this interesting letter:

"I certainly enjoy the food pages of The Post and sent my pet spaghetti recipe to a recent contest without results. Today, in addition to the unscrambled recipes, I am sending you one of my family's favorite hearty cold weather menus.

"Baked hominy and fresh pork
Canned long green asparagus.
Mixed slaw. Chilled apple sauce
Chocolate blanc mange with nuts."

"Salt and pepper a pork chop for each person and place in the bottom and around the sides (if several) of a glass baking dish. Pour in 3 or 4 cups cooked hominy, put lid on dish and bake about 45 minutes. Serve as taken from oven. There is the meat and starch handy. In winter I find it necessary to use canned fruit and vegetables, but never serve more than one canned product at a meal. The Mary Washington long green tastes just like fresh asparagus.

1 sweet pepper, partly reddened.

"Place in chopping bowl together and chop fairly fine. Dressing. Juice one lemon, ¼ cup salad oil, 1 teaspoon salt, and 2 teaspoons sugar. Needs no lettuce. A pretty and delicious relish. It is also very nice jellied. I use ¼ package lemon prepared gelatin, leaving out the regular seasoning, except salt, mould and serve with mayonnaise."

Other Recipes Invited.

The editor of the home economic pages of The Washington Post would be glad to receive other tried and true recipes from housewives who have used them in their homes and know their virtues. Just address such recipes to "The Home Economics Editor, Washington Post."

The correct solutions of the Scrambled Recipes published in The Washington Post of Saturday, December 13, on which the above prizes were awarded, were as follows:

PUMPKIN PIE.

2-3 cup brown sugar.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
½ teaspoon ginger.
1 teaspoon salt.
2 eggs.
2 cups milk.

SALMON LOAF.

2 cups cooked salmon.
2 eggs.
½ cup fine bread crumbs.
4 tablespoons butter.
Salt and pepper.
Minced parsley.

MAPLE MOUSSE.

½ cup sugar.
5 cups cream.
2 tablespoons gelatin.

HINTS ARE OFFERED ON KEEPING OF FOOD

Cleanliness, Dryness and Cold Will Prevent Spoiling by Organisms.

CARE OF FERTILE EGGS

The thrifty housewife will harken to the advice of the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture and store and preserve with the utmost care the foodstuffs which come into her home.

Recently the bureau outlined some ways in which foods could be kept from spoiling. Among the hints given for the care of food were these:

The moist, cut surfaces of dressed meats, poultry and fish offer particularly favorable conditions for the growth of microorganisms that cause putrefaction; therefore, every precaution should be taken to keep such foods clean, cold and dry.

Cuts of meat from the market should be unwrapped as soon as delivered, any visible dirt wiped or scraped off and the meat then placed in a clean, dry, covered dish in the refrigerator or cold storeroom. Washing draws the juices from meats and hastens spoilage, and should never be done until just before cooking.

Fish loses its fresh flavor and spoils even more quickly than most meats. Since the flavor is likely to be absorbed by other foods, it should be put into the refrigerator only in a tightly covered container. Shellfish with the exception of the kinds held alive until used, should be kept like other sea food, as nearly ice cold as possible.

For marketing, undrawn poultry generally keeps better than that from which the entrails are removed, but under home conditions poultry should generally be drawn at once after singeing and thoroughly washing to remove dirt, oil and flakes of scarfskin.

Eggs.

As soon as eggs are brought from the poultry yard or the market, they should be sorted, and any cracked or soiled ones removed for immediate use. The keeping quality of eggs is serious affected by rough handling, changes in temperature, dampness, dirt on the shells, unclean surroundings and fertility.

Fertile eggs tend to spoil more quickly than those that are infertile, for even room temperature (70 degrees Fahrenheit) aids the development of the embryo in a fertile egg. Eggs, therefore, are best kept in a covered container in a dry, clean place where the temperature is not above 60 degrees Fahrenheit. All eggs should be washed, but not until just before using, because water removes the protective film on the shell that hinders evaporation, the entrance of bacteria and the absorption of odors.

Boiled rice, hominy and other cereals also spoil quickly. In general left-over foods should be transferred promptly from the dishes in which they were served to separate, clean, dry, covered dishes, chilled as quickly as possible, and kept in cold storeroom or refrigerator.

Selection of Proper Foods Helps to Ward Off Colds

Coarse, Bulky Vegetables Such as Greens and White Grain Cereals and Fruits Recommended and at Least 8 Glasses of Water Daily.

"Winter means just one cold after another for me. That is why I dread its coming!"

How often you hear this, especially in climates where the winter season is marked by a decided drop in temperature, snow and piercing winds.

True, colds should be dreaded by every one. Colds may seem inoffensively mild, but always they are dangerous. They are easily passed on from one to another. They often develop into bronchitis or pneumonia, or maybe a bad ear or mastoid condition.

But it is within the province of every adult to build up resistance against the cold germs that attack you. Correct diet, regularity of eating and other health habits including elimination, sleep, daily rest and relaxation, exercise and getting plenty of fresh air—all help you to build up this barricade against the common cold.

For Balanced Diet.

Food properly chosen offers you the best ammunition to fight the old germs. Your diet must be balanced. It must contain the tissue-building foods, known as proteins, and contained in milk, meat and eggs. It must contain energy foods provided by fats, starches and sugars. These energy foods are found in butter and dairy products and in bread and potatoes, the two easiest obtainable and cheapest foods.

Your diet must include foods that maintain a favorable alkaline balance in the body. The average diet is generally made up of too many acid-forming foods, such as meat, fish, oysters, eggs, bread and cereals. Doctors think that when an acid condition exists in our bodies we are easy prey to colds. So we must plan our meals to include foods to counteract this condition. Such foods are beans and lima beans, carrots, beets, citrus fruits, such as oranges, grapefruit, lemons, and other fruits, as bananas and raisins and nuts. Milk is also alkaline-forming in its effect on the system. Evaporated milk, which is doubly rich, is twice as effective in its health-giving properties.

Vitamins Only Important.

In selecting your foods have in mind their vitamin content, especially A and D. Vitamin A, found in cod liver oil, butter, eggs, spinach and other green vegetables and milk, is the most important vitamin in building up resistance against infectious colds. Vitamin D is also found in cod liver oil.

Eat coarse, bulky foods and those of laxative qualities—such as greens, fruits and whole-grain cereals. Drink at least eight glasses of water daily, and it is well to begin the day by drinking a glass of cold water before breakfast. Of course, you will start your day off right by eating a good breakfast. Then you have done your part in waging an individual battle against colds.

Stuffed Onions.

¼ cup chopped ham.
¼ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup bread crumbs.
1 tablespoon butter.
Pepper.
½ tablespoon salt.
1-3 cup buttered bread crumbs.
½ cup evaporated milk.

Skin onions and cut a slice from the top of each. Par-boil until almost tender. Drain and scoop out centers. Chop onion that is removed and combine with ham, pepper, bread crumbs and butter. Add seasonings and refill onion cups. Place in a baking dish, and cover top of onions with buttered bread crumbs. Pour milk, that has been diluted with the water, around onions. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until tender. Yield: 6 servings.

Cole Slaw.

Dash pepper.
1½ tablespoon sugar.
3 cups finely cut cabbage.
3 tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar.
6 tablespoon evaporated milk.

Add salt, pepper and sugar to cabbage. Combine lemon juice or vinegar with milk, then add to cabbage. Keep cold until ready to serve. Yield: 6 servings.

Baked Custrad.

1-3 cup sugar.
Pinch salt.
2 cups evaporated milk.
2 cups boiling water.
1-3 tablespoon vanilla.
Nutmeg.

Beat eggs slightly. Add sugar, salt, milk diluted with water and vanilla. Strain custard mixture into cups and sprinkle with nutmeg. Set in a pan containing sufficient hot water to come almost to top of cups. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) until a knife inserted comes out clean. Yield: 6 servings.

How to Make Frosting And Filling in Cake

Cake frostings and fillings: Good frosting requires as much skill in making as candy. Boiled frostings are more delicious than those made with confectioners' sugar. When sugar is scarce, omit frostings on cakes, and use fillings only.

Boiled frosting or white mountain cream:

1 cup sugar.
Whites of 1 or 2 eggs.
1 teaspoon flavoring.

Cook sugar and water together in a saucepan, stirring until sugar is dissolved. If 1 beaten egg is used, boil the sugar solution to the soft-ball stage, until it forms 2-inch threads when dropped from a spoon or fork. If 2 egg whites are used, boil to the firm ball stage. The syrup should not be stirred during the process of cooking. If crystals collect on the sides of the saucepan remove with a wet cloth or wet brush. When the sugar solution has boiled to the right temperature pour it gradually into the stiffly beaten whites of eggs, beating continually while pouring and continue beating until of right consistency to spread on the cakes. Flavor.

Strained Cranberry Sauce Is Excellent

All you need: 4 cups cranberries, 2 cups water and 1 to 1½ cups sugar.

Boil cranberries and water until the berries stop popping. Then press through coarse sieve, add sugar, and cook until sugar is dissolved (2 minutes).

Note: Strained cranberry sauce is delicious served with cottage or bread puddings; and make a tasty filling for cakes, jelly rolls and sandwiches.

Recipe Is Given For Creamed Celery

Creamed celery—Clean and cut outside stalks of celery into one-half inch lengths. Place in boiling, salted water (just enough water to cover celery) and cook, covered, about fifteen minutes, or until tender. To one cup of celery liquor, add 1 cup evaporated cream or rich milk. Bring to the boiling point and thicken with 1 tablespoon butter blended with 1 tablespoon flour for each cup of sauce.

SUGAR-CURED HAM ALWAYS FINE DISH

Delicately Smoked, It Goes Well With Winter Vegetables, Adding Flavor.

BAKED, IT IS REAL TREAT

Meat is generally accepted as a main dish of the evening meal—in fact, very few homemakers would consider serving an evening or noonday dinner without a main dish consisting of an ample portion of this most important protein food. But there are times when the homemaker feels she has run the gamut of fresh meat cuts. There are smoked meats that are particularly delicious when served with winter vegetables—meats the homemaker often overlooks—meats that are rich in flavor and nutrition.

Ham, sugar cured and delicately smoked, is a meat well worth considering for any meal. Its uses are innumerable. Ham adds flavor and variety to otherwise bland foods, and therefore, is particularly nice when served with vegetables and starchy foods. A baked ham is a real treat, and it is economical too, because every bit is usable. The scraps on the platter may be mixed with cold boiled potatoes, and every one knows that homemade ham hash served with poached eggs is a dish the family will enjoy.

Ham Hash With Poached Eggs.

1 teaspoon minced onion.
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper.
⅛ teaspoon pepper,
¼ teaspoon salt.
3 tablespoons drippings.
5 eggs.

Mix ham with potatoes and seasoning. Saute in drippings until thoroughly heated and slightly browned. Poach eggs. Dip eggs from water and serve on individual mounds of the hash.

Boiled Ham With Vegetables.

5 small potatoes.
1 small head of cabbage cut in fifths.
5 small onions.
3 small turnips, cut in quarters.
3 medium-sized carrots, cut in quarters lengthwise.

Plunge the ham in a pan of hot water and simmer one hour before adding the vegetables. At the end of the first hour's cooking add the turnips and when these have cooked fifteen minutes add the potatoes and cabbage; cook 30 minutes longer and remove the vegetables carefully so as not to break in pieces and serve on a platter. Arrange with the ham in the center of the platter and surround with vegetables.

A dish that is popular the world over is scalloped ham and potatoes. Of course, there are any number of ways in which this dish may be prepared, but one that I have found most successful is as follows:

Scalloped Ham and Potatoes.

4 cups sliced raw potatoes.
1½ cups thin white sauce.
Salt and pepper.

Cut a slice of ham one-half inch thick and flour lightly. Fry each side until it begins to brown, then put into a baking dish, cover with the white sauce and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for half an hour. Turn and bake another half hour. Cut pared potatoes into medium thick slices, boil until almost tender and drain. Arrange in the casserole, lay the slice of ham on top, set in the oven and bake 25 minutes.

Ham Croquettes With Green Peas.

3 egg yolks.
2 tablespoons butter.
2 cups mashed potatoes.
2 tablespoons cream.
A dash of cayenne.

Chop the ham fine and add to the mashed potatoes. Then add the cream and butter and the yolks of two eggs, beaten well. Beat all together until smooth, then add a dash of cayenne. Mold the ham into pyramid shapes of about a finger in length. Roll in the beaten egg that remains, then roll in dried crumbs and fry in deep fat at a temperature of 380 dgerees for 1½ minutes. Serve hot with canned peas.

Apples and Nuts Make Fine Salad

Mix one pint of celery and one pint of apples, cut into small match-like pieces, with one-half pint of English walnut meats broken into small pieces. Dress with boiled salad dressing and serve in apple cups or on lettuce leaves.

Orange Sponge Pie Good for Holidays

Orange sponge pie: ½ orange, ½ lemon, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 5 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon butter, a bit of salt and grated rind of ½ orange and ½ lemon. Mix sugar, flour and salt, add the well-beaten egg yolks, the juice and grated rind of the orange and lemon, then add milk and melted butter. Pour over the stiffly-beaten egg whites, fold together lightly, and pour into a deep pie plate lined with pastry. Bake for 5 minutes in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit), then reduce heat to moderate (375 degrees Fahrenheit) and bake for about 35 minutes, or until the custard is set.

CEREALS ARE PRIZED FOR AMERICAN DIET

HINTS ON COOKING THEM

More and more cereals are becoming a regular part of the diet in American homes. Especially at this time, when every penny must be counted, cereals are a solution to many food problems, for they furnish energy at a low cost.

For instance, cereal mush or other cereal dishes with milk for breakfast furnishes a meal of excellent food values. Housewives should not forget to keep several kinds of cereals on hand so that there may be a change from day to day.

Here are a few hints about the use of cereals each housewife should cut out and paste into her recipe book:

Corn and oat preparations furnish particularly good winter foods. Corn meal, oatmeal, rice and hominy grits are cheaper than the ready-to-eat breakfast foods. Cereals are rich in starches and should be thoroughly cooked.

Cereal with fruit—For variety, cereal may be cooked with well washed dates, raisins or dried apricots or peaches. Slices or sections of fresh apples, peaches and pears may be added during the last 30 minutes of cooking. Cereal molded in cups may be used for dessert.

Stewed cereal may be served with any fruit previously stewed, or fresh fruits, or the cereal may be cooked in strained fruit juice or milk instead of water.

Cereal as a vegetable—Left over cereal may be sliced when cold and fried for luncheon or supper. Cereal cooked in soup stock or with meat and seasoned with salt and pepper and butter may be used as a potato substitute.

Directions for Cooking.

Use a double boiler or two sauce pans, one a trifle larger than the other. Fill the larger sauce pan or lower part of double boiler one-third full of water and put the water needed for the cereal in the other vessel. When the water boils add the salt and cereal slowly so that the water does not stop boiling and let boil for ten minutes. Place the pot with cereal into the double boiler and cover and let steam. If the cereal seems to be too thick, add boiling water. The oatmeal, hominy and other coarse grain cereals are improved by soaking overnight in water. They should be cooked in the water in which they have been soaked.

Time Table and Directions.

Oatmeal, 4 cups water to 1 cup cereal, 1½ teaspoon salt, 3 hours.

Rolled oats, 2½ cups of water to cup cereal, 1 teaspoon salt; ½ to 1 hour.

Rice (boiled), 8 cups water to 1 cup cereal, 1 teaspoon salt; 25 to 30 minutes.

Wheat (rolled), 1½ cups water to 1 cup cereal, 1 teaspoon salt; 1 hour.

Wheat (granular), 4 cups water to 1 cup cereal, 1 teaspoon salt; 1 to 3 hours.

Cornmeal, 6 cups water to 1 cup cereal, 1 teaspoon salt; 3 to 6 hours.

Cracked wheat, 6 cups water to 1 cup cereal, 1 teaspon salt; 3 to 6 hours.

Hominy, 4 cups water to 1 cup cereal, 1 teaspoon salt; 1 hour.

(By using the fireless cooker, the cereal can be boiled 10 minutes over the fire in the evening, and then cooked overnight in the fireless cooker.)

Steamed Rice.

1 teaspoon salt.

Cook as other cereal, stirring occasionally with fork to prevent sticking. Let it steam in a double boiler 45 minutes. Put in colander and pour cold water over the rice to wash off the sticky substance. Put colander over the lower part of the boiler again and allow the steam to thoroughly dry the rice.

Browned Hominy.

Fry cooked hominy to a golden brown in just enough fat to prevent sticking. Bacon fat or other drippings are preferable to lard because of their flavor. Serve in place of "fried" potatoes.

Macaroni and Kidney Stew Excellent Dishes

1 pound beef kidney
1 large onion, sliced
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 quart water

Parboil the macaroni for 7 minutes in 4 quarts rapidly boiling water to which 1 tablespoon salt has been added. Drain. Wash and soak kidneys in cold water. Cut into small pieces and place in stew pan. Then add the macaroni, onion, salt, pepper and water. Cover and place in a moderate oven for 2½ hours.

Egg Noodles Made With Sauerkraut

1 package egg noodles
4 cups sauerkraut
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1 pound sausages.

Parboil noodles 7 minutes in 4 quarts rapidly boiling water to which 1 tablespoon salt has been added. Drain. In a well-greased casserole place a layer of sauerkraut, seasoned with salt and pepper, then a layer of noodles and continue, alternating until used up, allowing noodles to form the top layer. On this place sausages, each pricked with a fork, cover casserole, bake in a moderate oven 1 hour. If vegetable dish is required, sausage may be omitted.

TURKEY SHORTCAKE POST-HOLIDAY DISH

DEEP-DISH TURKEY PIE

Can any one fail to enjoy creamed turkey shortcake, casserole of turkey and peas, or scalloped turkey? Deep dish turkey pie also is an especially fine dish. The recipe given below is one used for many years by women in a church famous for turkey suppers.

When you are considering how to use the left over turkey from the feast, try one of the following recipes and you will be assured of an excellent dinner. In any of them, of course, chicken or other left-over meat may be substituted for the turkey.

How to Make Turkey Pie.

Deep dish turkey pie: 3 cups turkey; 3 cups turkey gravy; ½ cup milk; 2 cups flour; 2 teaspoons baking powder; 3-4 teaspoon salt; 3 level tablespoons shortening—one of butter and two of lard; 1 egg; 1 cup milk.

Cut turkey from the bones and heat in gravy to which the milk has been added. Thicken if needed with a small amount of flour blended with water. For the crust sift together the flour, baking powder and salt, and work in the shortening. Beat egg and add milk. Pour this into the flour mixture and stir to a batter. Put the turkey into a deep baking dish, spread the dough over it, and bake for ½ hour in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

Creamed Turkey Shortcake — 4 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk or part milk and turkey broth or gravy, ½ teaspoon minced parsley, salt and pepper to taste, ¼ cup stuffed Spanish olives, sliced; 2 cups cold diced turkey, 1 beaten egg yolk.

Melt butter, add flour and stir until well blended. Add milk, stir until thickened and then add minced parsley, salt and pepper and sliced olives. To this sauce add the cold diced turkey. A beaten egg yolk stirred in just before taking from the fire adds to the richness of the dish. Serve between halves of hot biscuit or in pastry shells made by lining tins with pie crust and baking until crisp and delicately browned. It may also be served over bread cut into cubes and toasted. Garnish with fresh cucumber pickle slices.

Turkey Club Sandwiches with Bacon—Toast bread quickly so that it will not be hard, and butter it generously. Spread with slices of cold turkey, then with crisp slices of hot bacon. Add a leaf of lettuce and a slice of tomato, and spread with mayonnaise salad dressing. Cover with a second slice of toast and serve with chili sauce. Garnish with slices of sweet dill pickle.

Recipe for Scallpoed Turkey.

Scalloped turkey—Two cups cold diced turkey, 1 pint broth or gravy, salt and pepper, Worcestershire sauce, 2 cups sliced potatoes, bread crumbs.

Thicken the broth with a small amount of butter and flour mixed together and season with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Arrange alternate layers of turkey, sliced potatoes that have been parboiled for eight minutes in boiling salted, water, and bread crumbs. Pour in the gravy, top with crumbs and dot with butter. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in a moderate oven.

Turkey and Peas En Casserole—Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup turkey gravy or broth, ¼ cup tomato ketchup, salt and pepper, 2 cups cold turkey, 1 cup cold cooked peas.

Melt butter and blend with flour. Add broth and tomato ketchup and heat until boiling, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper. Place turkey and peas in alternate layers in a baking dish and pour the hot sauce over them. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with butter. Place in a moderate oven until thoroughly heated and serve.

Recipe Tells How To Make Fruit Cake

Fruit cake:
7 eggs.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
Few grains salt.
2 pounds raisins, seeded and finely chopped.
½ pound date meats, finely chopped.

Cream the shortening, add sugar gradually and beat for 5 minutes. Beat the egg yolks until light and lemon-colored and the whites until stiff and dry. Add these to the butter and sugar mixture, then add the milk, fruit juice, chopped nuts and fruit that have been rolled in flour. Lastly, add the well-sifted dry ingredients (flour, spices, baking powder and salt), beat the mixture thoroughly and place in deep, round cake pans lined with seveari thicknesses of oiled paper. Bake 3 to 4 hours in a slow oven. If the oven is difficult to regulate, cover the cake with several thicknesses of oiled paper the last hour of the baking.

Orange Puffs Made With Orange Sauce

Orange puffs with orange sauce, 1-3 cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, ½ cup milk, 1¾ cups flour and 3 teaspoons baking powder. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and eggs well beaten. Mix and sift flour and baking powder and add alternately with the milk to first mixture. Turn into buttered muffin tins and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for about 25 minutes. Serve with orange sauce.

Colorful Table Is Arranged For New Year Celebrations

Simple Evergreens and Candle Lights Make Very Appropriate Decorations for Edibles to Be Served Guests.

This New Year's Eve party is planned for people of any age—dignified 60 will enjoy it as much as the 16-year-old watching the New Year in for the first time.

The early part of the evening may be devoted to bridge or dancing or any other kind of entertainment, but by the time the clock strikes 12, the group should be assembled around a supper table gay with New Year decorations and noise-producing favors. For isn't New Year's Eve a time for the most sedate to shed their dignity—for a few minutes at least?

For table decorations, simple evergreens and candle lights are appropriate. An attractive centerpiece used last year by a popular hostess consisted of evergreens arranged in the shape of a star, the green foliage liberally sprinkled with artificial snow. At the points and in the angles of the star were placed white candles. If you want a gayer background, use balloons—all sizes and colors. Tie them to the backs of the chairs, to the water glasses, to the centerpiece which in this case might be a cake decorated to look like the face of a clock with the hands pointing to 12. If you don't want to serve cake in this form, it is very easy to provide an imitation cake by frosting an overturned pan with white icing and marking the hours and the hands with melted chocolate.

The individual favors should include horns, whistles, bells or other noise-making devices. Be sure to provide also plenty of paper crackers, which when pulled produce caps, bonnets and other headgear designed to make the most solemn guest set aside his dignity.

The first course should be on the table when the guests sit down. It might consist of canapes or open sandwiches designed to imitate a clock face. These are easily made—simply a generous round slice of toast or bread spread with cream cheese and decorated with bits of dates or pimiento to form numbers and hands.

For the second course, something hot is usually preferred for this coldest and latest night of the year. It is popular nowadays to serve breakfast dishes such as waffles and sausage or bacon and eggs with muffins. If you prefer a regular supper, however, would suggest the following:

Fried Oysters
Pickles Cole Slaw
Buttered Rolls Coffee

This menu will be easier too, for the hostess who has to prepare the lunch herself. The oysters can be fixed ahead of time and made ready to dip into a kettle of hot fat where they will fry to a delicate golden brown in just a minute. The rolls can be purchased at the bakery or if you want to give your guests a real treat make them yourself in the morning and simply reheat for serving. Tiny little Parker House rolls—each one just about two mouthfuls of crustiness—will be a delicious novelty. You will need dozens of them, so be sure to make plenty.

GENARO-WOLGAST BOUT FOR TITLE ENDS IN DRAW

Reports of Expulsion of Court Teams Ridiculed.

J. C. C. Refused to Play Ineligible Foe Second Game.

OFFICIALS of the District of Columbia Association of the Amateur Athletic Union yesterday branded as ridiculous published reports that the St. Martin's and Jewish Community Center basket ball teams had been dropped from the rolls of the association.

In some cases deeming the reports unworthy of the dignity of answer, the officials to a man stated no action had been taken against these two teams.

It had been reported the St. Martin's and the Jewish Community Center tossers had been ejected because they participated in games against certain players whose status as amateurs are questionable.

Registration Chairman Denies Action.

William E. Russell, chairman of the registration committee, whose duty it is to certify as to the status of bona fide amateur athletes who seek registration in the association, declared emphatically that no action had been taken against the clubs mentioned.

James McNamara, athletic director and boxing coach of the Jewish Community Center, branded as false the report that he might withdraw his boxing team from the A. A. U.

"It is true, said McNamara, that we played a team whose standing later was found to be ineligible, and when that team asked us for a second game we refused.

Jewish Community Center Is Charter Member.

"The Jewish Community Center is a charter member of the District Association; in fact, we have fathered the A. A. U. here and there is no trouble between us now. How in the world such a report could have been taken for the truth is certainly a riddle to me."

Another report branded as untrue was that the A. A. U. would ban from future competition in independent and college ranks the members of the Central High School quintet should that team participate in a game scheduled tonight by the Census Enumerators as a preliminary to the Benjamin Franklin-Georgia Tech contest at Tech High School. Such action by the A. A. U. was supposed to have been taken because two members of the Census Team have been classed ineligible for amateur play.

Not only was it learned that the A. A. U. had not issued a warning of this nature, but, in addition, Bert Coggins, coach of the Central Team, informed The Post that he had called off the appearance of his team voluntarily.

All-Star Foes Clash Today On Coast

50,000 to See Game Between East-West for Charity.

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Strong legs will run so the weak may some day walk when football stars from many parts of the country clash here tomorrow in the annual East-West charity game. Proceeds of the contest, one of the oldest charitable gridiron enterprises, will go to the Shriners' Crippled Children's Hospital.

Upwards of 50,000 persons are expected to turn out at Kezar Stadium for the classic that will bring together players whose individual feats were recorded throughout the Nation this season. It will be the fifth renewal of the game inaugurated here in 1925.

East Has Won In Last 2 Dashes.

Western teams won the first three contests while in 1928 and 1929 the East claimed victories. This year the Eastern squad will line up as the favorite. It will have an 8-pound weight advantage per man.

Andy Kerr, of Colgate, and Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, coaches of the Eastern team, have assembled such luminaries as Len Macaluso, of Colgate, full back and high scoring ace of the Eastern sector; Tony Siano, Fordham Center; Hank Bruder, half back of Northwestern; George Van Bibber, Purdue tackle, and many others.

The Eastern squad has been drilled in the wing back formation and style of play made famous by Coach Glenn Warner, of Stanford.

West Will Feature Passing Offense.

The Western eleven, coached by Dana X. Bible, of Nebraska, and Percy Locey, of the San Francisco Olympic Club, is expected to resort almost entirely to a passing attack. This type of offense has featured the West's practice sessions although considerable emphasis also has been placed on the line crashing capabilities of Big Jim Bausch, University of Kansas full back. IF Nero played any sort of musical instrument while Rome burned it was not a fiddle, for the fiddle, or violin, was not invented until the Middle Ages. Tradition says that the instrument used by the emperor was the lute. Nero set fire to the city to see how it looked in flames and was so pleased when he witnessed the spectacle from a high tower that he refused to let the people extinguish the fire. Nero blamed the fire on the Christians, whom he persecuted mercilessly.

Ed Ek lays claim to the shortest double name in the United States. His first name is really Ed, not Edward. Ek cannot claim the shortest single name for, as mentioned in Strange As It Seems some time ago, there is a man in Oakland, Calif, who has only one letter for a name, Mr. X.

"Snowball" is the name of the cat that prefers drinking milk from a glass to lapping it up from a saucer. "Snowball" is pure white and stone deaf. This queer animal is really a "rabbicat," for it has the hind legs and tail of a rabbit and the front legs of a cat. It hops behind and runs in front.

Football, Netting $25,316, Carried All Virginia Sports

Gross Income of Grid Team, Only Squad to Show Profit, Was $48,962; Coaches Drew $17,499 in Salaries for 1929-30.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Dec. 26.—Football carries the burden of all intercollegiate activities at the University of Virginia, as at other institutions, according to the financial statement for the university year 1929-30, just issued by Thomas M. Carruthers, assistant athletic director.

All sports other than football were operated at a loss, and the deficit had to be made up from the $48,962.68 which was the income from the gridiron game. Football expenses amounted to $23,647.22, which left $25,316.46 to take care of the other athletic activities. Boxing, with a deficit of $44.07, came nearer to breaking even than any other sport.

After deducting the expenses of sports not receiving sufficient income to meet their respective expenses, there is shown a gross income from sports of $40,642.28; from this is deducted the salaries and other overhead expenses, leaving a net income before taking account of depreciation of $6,426.26. Deducting depreciation on equipment, the net profit for the year amounts to $810.75.

Injury to Whalen Cost $2,874.

Every expense for the year has been met with the exception of $1,000, still due the surgeon for the operation on Lawrence Whalen, guard on the football team, who was injured in the Maryland game. The entire expense of Mr. Whalen's operation and hospitalization was $2,874.20.

General expenses listed included: Salaries for coaches, $17,499.99; administrative officers and employees, $5,587.46; janitors and field help, $3,501.30; pension for Henry H. Lannigan, $2,004.00; interest on bonds, $2,337.90; auto and truck, $691.18; travel (general), $401.34; telephone and telegraph, $490.49; office supplies and expenses, $522.21; miscellaneous expenses, $490.05; publicity agent, $600; contributions to 3-3-3 council, $100.

New Equipment Cost $9,924.

G. Crowther, of Baltimore, whose son was captain of the lacrosse team last spring, gave the sum of $250 to employ a coach to assist Dr. Allen Voshell with the lacrosse squad. The assistant employed was Gus Welch, formerly of the Carlisle Indians.

The equipment on hand at the end of the season of 1928-29 was old and had to be replaced, in most cases with the consequent expenditure of $9,924.37. A considerable quantity of that which was found to be practically useless was distributed to the schools of Albemarle and adjoining counties. The present equipment is usuable and in good condition.

Receipts, Expenses Are Detailed.

Golf: Receipts, $50.00; expenses, $411.35; deficit, $361.35.

The deficit of the General Athletic Association on September 1, 1929, was $32,070.07, which has been reduced by the sum of $810.75, being the net income from the year's operations.

Illegal Use of Lawn Costs Team Ball Until Safety Man Is Fined

KANSAS CITY, KANS., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—With no sports guides among his tomes on jurisprudence, Judge Lee Judy was forced to ignore the rules committee and assess penalties in dollars instead of yards when a football row swept through his court today.

Thomas Peters was charged with failure to return a punt which he caught in his back yard zone.

The jurist and referee penalized Peters $100 for holding and awarded the ball to the other side, represented by Joseph Lawrence, of the Rosedale High School squad.

"I am tired of them breaking down my fences and trampling over my lawn," the safety man told the judge. "I am not going to give back the ball."

After this kick, Peters was said by the court to have agreed to return the ball to the high school youths in return for suspension of the penalty.

Critics Vote Stribling Best Of Heavies; Schmeling Third

NEW YORK, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—W. L. (Young) Stribling, of Atlanta, is the leading heavyweight boxer of the world in the collective opinion of 70 leading boxing critics, whose rating of the ten leading heavyweights was published today by the New York Sun.

Stribling's quick knockouts of Von Porat and Phil Scott and his decision over young Tuffy Griffiths at Chicago, during 1930 raised him from sixth place in last year's rating to the top of the heap.

Sharkey fought only twice during the year—in Miami with Scott and in New York against Schmeling. He won the first on a questionable knockout and lost the second on an unquestioned foul. The Boston sailor man led the list last year.

Stribling Heavy Choice In Balloting.

Stribling, who was given first rank by 35 of the critics, made the most progress during the year, gaining 335 points. Sharkey was given 18 first place ballots and Schmeling 10, while Mickey Walker, Max Baer and Tommy Loughran got one each.

Three of last year's first ten—Scott, Otto Von Porat and Paulino—failed to finish "in the money" this year, their places being taken by Primo Carnera, the man-mountain from Italy, who was ranked fourth this year; Baer and Johnny Risko.

The ratings were Stribling, 647 (of a possible 700); Sharkey, 611; Schmeling, 546; Carnera, 351; Griffiths, 273; George Godfrey, 206; Vittorio Campolo, 167; Tommy Loughran, 160; Baer, 145, and Risko, 94.

One of the surprises in the poll was the ranking of Carnera. The results, however, indicated the critics believe Stribling, Sharkey and Schmeling to be in a class by themselves, since Carnera, in fourth place, was far below Schmeling.

Offered Garden Bout, Says "Pa" Stribling.

Atlanta, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Pa Stribling advised the Atlanta Journal today he had received an offer from William F. Carey, of Madison Square Garden, for his son, W. L. Stribling, to fight Jack Sharkey in New York in February or March.

Pa said he planned to answer the communication today and to tell Carey he was under contract with Nate Lewis, of the Chicago Stadium, for a fight there either in February or March. He said he would suggest if Sharkey was anxious to meet Stribling, Lewis could arrange the match.

Pa said the Carey message also stated the winner of the proposed Stribling-Sharkey match would get Schmeling in a world title bout later in 1931.

2 Flyweights Reach No Decision

Crowd Boos, Many Leave; Wolgast's Eye Badly Hurt.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Midget Wolgast and Frankie Genaro, rival claimants for the flyweight title, fought fifteen rounds to a draw tonight in a disappointing match that was scheduled to determine an undisputed champion.

ROUND ONE—Genaro, fighting in New York State for the first time in years, tore out to carry the battle to his younger, faster opponent. Wolgast took his first left hook to the head and then chased the Italian around the ring with a rapid-fire attack to the head. The midgets whirled around the ring at an amazing clip, swapping left hooks to the head. One left hook opened a slight cut in Genaro's eyelid just before the bell.

ROUND TWO—Genaro snapped a left hook into Wolgast's head that stirred the Philadelphia mite into a whirlwind of energy. He chased Genaro around and around, pumping a stream of left hooks to the head. Genaro stopped him short with a right to the chin. The pace slowed and the crowd booed, but they were slugging at close quarters as the gong rang.

ROUND THREE—Genaro forced the going, stepping in with left hooks to the body, but Wolgast spun him around with a left to the head and forced the Italian veteran to hold with a two-fisted body attack. They were cautious after that, both refusing to lead, and the crowd booed them quietly up to the gong.

ROUND FOUR—Genaro stabbed the Philadelphia midget off balance with a stream of lefts and inspired Wolgast to start fighting again. They hooked lefts to the head, whanged rights over lustily, and then settled down to clinching and sparring once more. They took things so easily that the crowd was clapping hands in unison by the time the gong sounded.

ROUND FIVE—They clinched and boxed continually at close quarters, a strange performance for tiny fellows chock full of speed and boxing ability, and the crowd booed disapproval. Genaro jumped in with a left and right to the head and stung the midget with two shots to the body. Wolgast refused to open up, and the slim crowd became slimmer as the faithful started to go home.

ROUND SIX—They wrestled and sparred for a full minute without either landing a solid blow. Genaro tried to start a fight, thumping Wolgast twice about the body, but the midget stayed away. Genaro shot a right to the head that started a lump over Wolgast's left eye. They sparred weakly up to the bell.

ROUND SEVEN — Genaro danced into Wolgast with a left to the head and right to the ribs and the midget decided to fight back. They clouted each other lustily about the head and the customers cheered for the first time in several rounds. Wolgast hooked a nice left to the jaw, but the spurt was short-lived and they sparred dispiritedly up to the bell.

ROUND EIGHT—Genaro set out to pepper Wolgast's damaged left eye and a series of short rights in a clinch all but closed the eye. Wolgast fought strictly on the defensive, forsaking his usual rapid-fire attack, and the crowd booed steadily as Genaro, not as speedy as he used to be, had trouble finding the midget. Genaro got in close for one shot in the ribs before the bell.

ROUND NINE — Referee Haley warned both boys in between rounds that they must fight a bot harder if they wanted to stay in there with him for fifteen rounds. Wolgast came out slugging, belting the veteran about the head and body with lashing left hooks. Genaro charged straight into the glove barrage and smashed at Wolgast's body. Wolgast shot a hard right to the head at the gong.

ROUND TEN—Wolgast's left eye was was all but closed as he danced out and into Genaro's stiff right to the body. Midget whipped his left to the head and chased Genaro around the ring, pumping both hands to the head and body. Frankie slipped to his knees when caught off balance by a left hok to the head, but was up without a count. The action died suddenly, however, but they rested until the bell.

ROUND ELEVEN—Wolgast rushed genaro to the ropes but Frankie stabbed him off balance with a sharp left and forced the fighting to close quarters. Midget beat a rat-a-tat on Genaro's body with his two hands while Frankie belted two rights to Wolgast's damaged eye. They sparred the round out.

ROUND TWELVE—With one eye tightly closed, Wolgast set out at a breakneck speed to sweep Genaro around the ring but two stiff pokes to the body slowed him down. Frankie swept a left hook to the head and they swapped body punches in close. The crowd pleaded for action but the best the mites could do was a series of clinches and wrestling duels up to the gong.

ROUND FOURTEEN — Wolgast ripped a left hook to Genaro's head, but took a right to the chin in return. They slugged it out on the ropes, with Genaro out-roughing his less experienced foe. Wolgast shot a right to the head, but seemed glad to hold as Genaro whaled into him with both hands. They were slugging manfully in a clinch at the gong.

ROUND FIFTEEN—Wolgast bounced and danced and Genaro bounced and danced for almost a minute before they came together for the first punches of the round. Wolgast shot both hands to the body, but Frankie shot the midget's head back with a right uppercut. They rested in a clinch, punching to the body, but broke awey in a wild two-fisted exchange that set the crowd roaring. Genaro forced the milling, shooting over a final right to the head at the bell.

PRO GOLFERS WITHDRAW DEMAND

CHICAGO, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The Professional Golfers' Association has made peace with the various sponsors of open tournaments by agreeing to forget about its demand for 10 per cent of net tournament proceeds.

The demand, which caused a storm of protest and threatened to disrupt the big winter golf campaign at several points, was withdrawn by Albert R. Gates, business administrator for the P. G. A., who said cash for the upkeep of the organization's tournament committee would be obtained from some other source.

Administrator Gates also denied reports that the tournament bureau was to be abolished. He said Robert Marlow would continue to manage the bureau.

$105,000 Prize Money Already Scheduled.

"Harlow has been working to good purpose while the gossips have been 'rumoring' about him," the administrator said. "When you take into consideration the fact that prize money in the neighborhood of $105,000 has already been scheduled, along with two or three more open dates that should boost it to at least $130,000 it would not seem to indicate that the tournament bureau is failing in its purpose of providing more and better tournaments for the professionals."

GEORGIA FIVE TO INVADE TONIGHT

Game With Tornado Biggest Test for Ben Franklins.

COACH BUCK DEBOSKEY'S basketers, of Benjamin Franklin University, set out in big league company for the first time of their short but ambitious careers tonight when they clash with the rangy quintet from Georgia Tech in the Tech High School Gymnasium, beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

The Bennies, who, incidentally have gained quite a bit of publicity through booking the well-known Golden Tornado, will be out to win something more than a victory. It is prestige and a higher local ranking that the Bennies seek, and Coach DeBoskey has led them at a strenuous pace this week in preparing for a tough battle.

Georgia Tech no doubt will be the favorite, as it boasts greater experience, weight and height. To counterbalance the Yellow Jackets advantages, the Accountants possess plenty of speed and spirit.

Franklins Boast Only Local Talent.

Composed of strictly local talent, Benjamin Franklin will line up in this array at the start: Dick Keefer and Pete Loftus, forwards; Milton Singman, center, and Lester Singman and Max Ryan, guards. All of these lads are products of Business High School. In reserve the Bennies will have Hurley, Proctor, Understein, Sherman and Johnson.

Georgia Tech's starting line-up has not been announced, but if they desire the Yellow Jackets can start an all-veteran combination made up of players who won their letters last year. Outstanding among them, according to advance reports, are Henry Wages, captain and forward; Bill Perkins, 6-foot-4 center, and Ted Raines, also a center. The smallest of this squad of big men is Buck Flowers, who stands 5 feet 8 inches, and who is better known for his accomplishments in football than basket ball.

3 More Robins Sign Contracts for 1931

New York, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Three more signed contracts were announced today by the Brooklyn Dodgers. Al Lopez, sensational young Cuban catcher; Babe Phelps, the big pitcher from Jacksonville, Fla., who made a promising record last year, and Johnny Frederick, regular center fielder, were the three to put their names on the dotted line.

Virginia Asks Coach Abell To Resign

Cavaliers Experience Third Disastrous Season in Row.

Alumni members of the athletic council are Murray M. McGuire, Richmond; Speed Elliott, New York City, and Brodie C. Nalle, Charlotte, N. C. Faculty members are Profs. Allen H. Voshell, John Luck and Charles Nash.

Virginia's football season had a disastrous finale on Thanksgiving when North Carolina was victorious for the fourth season in succession by a score of 41 to 0. The Cavaliers closed their 1930 campaign with a record of four games won and six lost.

This was the third season in a row and the sixth since football was resumed after the World War, in which Virginia failed to win half the contests on the schedule. During this twelve-year period, in fact, less than half the games played have resulted in victories. Out of the 110 contests on the gridiron since 1919, only 56 have been won, 12 were tied and 46 were lost.

Abell, all-American tackle in 1918 and former coach at Colgate, was appointed to succeed Earle Neale in 1929 and signed a three-year contract to coach football and baseball. During the past season he had as his chief of staff Gus Tebell, former head coach at North Carolina State, who looked after the back and ends. Johnny Sloan, captain last fall, and George Taylor, for three seasons regular center, helped with the squad.

Virginia Trapshots Plan 32d Annual Meeting

Winchester, Va., Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The thirty-second annual business meeting and tournament of the Virginia Trapshooters Association will be held here July 3 and 4. Local committees expect to have plans for the event well under way early in the new year.

The committees have been appointed from the Winchester Gun Club, which has a membership that exceeds 100. Arthur Seabright, of Winchester, who is vice president of the State association, said between 125 and 150 trapshooters were expected to enter the tournament.

H. C. Dodge and T. R. Perry, both of Tazewell, were expected to be present to defend their State titles in the single and double matches, respectively, and M. C. Harrison, jr., of Harrisonburg, was to defend his championship handicap title.

The business meeting will be held on the first day. It will be the first meeting and tournament of the association to be held in this section of the State.

"Rip" Miller Rehired As Navy Line Coach

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Dec. 26.—Edgar E. (Rip) Miller, former Notre Dame football star, will return to Navy in the capacity of line coach, Capt. Henry D. Cooke, athletic director, announced today. Miller has filled that post for several seasons and he is held in high favor among the naval contingent.

That William A. (Navy Bill) Ingram, again will be in the role of head coach of the Middies, is regarded here as certain. Although athletic officials will make no definite announcement just now, it is known that Ingram has been offered a two-year contract, and that his acceptance will be forthcoming within the next few days, in spite of reports to the effect that University of California or other institutions were dickering for his services.

Frank Shore Beaten In U. S. Junior Tennis

New York, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—William Jacobs, of Baltimore, defending champion in the national junior indoor tennis tournament, entered the third round today by easily disposing of Irving Lindenbaum, of Boys' High School, Brooklyn, in straight sets. The score was 6—0, 6—2.

Sidney Seligson, N. Y. U., seeded No. 6, defeated Frank M. Shore, junior champion of Washington, D. C., 6—3, 6—1, in another second-round match.

Emil Schnap, of the University of Michigan, eighth player on the seeded list, was the only one of the ten selected players who failed to come through. He was upset in a hard match by Sidney B. Wertheimer, of the Poly Prep School, Brooklyn, by scores of 4—6, 10—8, 6—3.

NATIONAL LEAGUE DOUBLE-PLAY RECORD BROKEN

Giants Lead Teams on Defense

Critz, Traded by Reds to Giants, Is Best 2d Baseman.

Veteran, Rabbit Maranville, Shows Way to Shortstops.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

M'GRAW'S New York Giants, who led the National League in hitting, also showed the way in team fielding, according to the official figures published in The Post this morning, topping the heap with a mark of .974. The flag-winning Cardinals made the most double-plays, 176, this feature, no doubt, figuring prominently in their right to first place.

Double-killings were more prominent than ever before in the Heydler circuit last season, as 1,318 were made all told for a new league record. There were four triple-plays during the year, Cincinnati contributing two and Brooklyn and Philadelphia one each.

Most Assists, Chances, Errors for Phils.

The Chicago Cubs had the most putouts and the most men left on the runways, Brooklyn and Boston had the most passed balls, and Philadelphia had the most assists, the most total chances and also the most errors.

Basing the leadership of each division on participation in at least 100 games, the Giants and Cubs shared top honors, each furnishing the high-average man in two positions. Charley Grimm, Cub first-sacker, led the doorway-guardians, while Charles Hartnett, also of the Windy Cityans, topped the catchers. Incidentally, he also was charged with the most passed balls, 10. The two leading Giants were Hughie Critz, obtained in a trade during the season from the Reds, at second base, and Walter Roettger in the outfield.

Earl Adams, of the Cards, showed the way to the third-sackers, while the scrappy little Boston Brave veteran, Walter (Rabbit) Maranville, was the best fielding shortstop in the league. No less than 22 pitchers had 1.000 marks, but Raymond C. Phelps, of Brooklyn, deserves the crown and he accepted the most chances, 53.

One individual fielding record was established, Charles (Chuck) Kline, Philadelphia outfielder, being credited with 444 assists, the 39 credited Mike Mitchell, Cincinnati fly-chaser, having stood up since 1907.

Ash Wins Game, With Only One Pitch.

Pitcher Ken Ash, of Cincinnati, made an unusual record while facing the Chicago Cubs as a relief pitcher on July 27. He was credited with a victory although pitching but one ball, a stunt credited to Bob Burke, of the Nationals in 1929.

In the sixth inning of this game, Ash relieved Benton with two men on base, none out, and the delivery—to Charley Grimm, who grounded into a triple-play. Cincinnati scored four runs in its half of the inning, which saw a pinch-batter at the tee in Ash's place, and Kolb finished the game. Ash earned the verdict on the when he went to the hill and the winning runs were made before Kolp saw action.

BOND PRICES CHANGE LITTLE IN DULL DAY

CARRIERS RISE SLIGHTLY

Bond prices moved uncertainly as the volume of trading dropped off sharply from the average for recent full sessions. Railroad obligations that have a high investment rating were accumulated at slightly higher prices, but it was a standoff in the rest of the domestic section. Speculative bonds were heavy and United States Governments displayed a mixed trend. Foreign obligations were irregularly lower, as Latin Americans turned reactionary in a thin market.

Announcement after the close of the market that the New York Clearing House Association had reduced the interest rates to be paid on deposits effective December 27 was received in financial circles as a potential aid to the bond market. The slashing of interest rates by New York clearing house banks for the third time this year tends to widen the spread between bond yields, and interest rates banks may pay on deposits.

The weekly report of the condition of Federal Reserve member banks in New York City, announced tonight, shows the city banks were virtually absent from the bond market during the week. Their holdings of "other" investments remained unchanged, and the total of United States Governments in their portfolios was only $2,000,000 more. From the start of the week it has been apparent from the quiet movement of prime bonds in the legal class that the switching by banks from domestic bonds to United States Governments had let up.

The list of securities considered legal investments for New York savings banks announced today by the State superintendent of banks contained several important changes. The list, which is prepared as of December 1, restores the obligations of the St. Louis Southwestern, and strikes Atlantic and Yadkin 4s, Central of Georgia, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico issues and those of the Pittsburgh, Youngstown and Ashtabula. The list is based largely on 1929 earnings. The general revision will not be made until after January 1.

Curb Review

New York, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The curb market began the day uncertainly, firmed up a little in the utility and oil divisions during the late morning, but yielded to selling pressure late in the day, along with the "big board," and the grain markets.

Trading was extremely sluggish during the early hours of trading, but quickened a little during the late selling. The day's total transactions, however, aggregated only 449,900 shares, or 37,300 shares less than Wednesday's turnover.

Electric Bond and Share was traded in fairly large volume, and sold up about a point early in the day, only to slide off 2 points from the top before the close. United Light "A" and American & Foreign Power warrants lost about a point, and Middle West Utilities "A" and American Gas & Electric yielded fractionally. General Gas 6 per cent convertible preferred "B" dropped 9 points.

In the oils, Gulf sold up a point, then reacted to close fractionally lower. Standard of Indiana and Cities Service also ended off slightly. Humble advanced to 62, only to fall back to 58¼, where it was off 2 points and in new low ground.

Industrials were very dull, and irregularly lower. Detroit Gasket, which is inactive most of the time, sold up a point in a fair turnover. Swift International was again a firm spot, moving up nearly a point, but was not very active. A sizable block of Carrier Corporation was sold, carrying it down 5½ points to a new low. Columbia Pictures declined 2 points to fresh low territory. Deere rose 3, then lost its gain.

Although coppers were mostly sluggish, Mayflower Associates, an investment trust interested in this group, rallied 3½ in fair demand. Goldman Sachs and United Founders eased fractionally to duplicate their old lows, and American Founders slipped off ¼ to a new minimum at 3¼.

ACTIVE STOCKS LOSE FROM 2 TO 7 POINTS

Decline in Wheat Serves as Impetus for Late Wave of Short Selling.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY OFF

New York, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—Professional selling, tax liquidation and a decline in July wheat to the lowest price in 34 years proved too great a weight for the stock market to lift so soon after Christmas and active shares lost 2 to 7 points today.

With many members of the financial community absent on an extended holiday, trading was quiet, although activity increased in the final hour, when the day's lowest quotations were recorded. Sales were 1,800,000 shares, 600,000 shares of which changed hands in the last 30 minutes.

Except for a brief recovery in the morning, the market's trend was downward. There was a group weakness in the merchandising, utility, steel and rail shares. Department, chain store and mail order stocks sold rather freely all day, reflecting Wall Street's belief that profit margains had been cut by lower prices and by a volume of holiday business that may not have been entirely up to expectations.

Copper Issues Firm.

Coppers were firm. Farm implement issues and many specialties joined the recession, and when the market closed it was little more than three points, on the average, above the midmonth low.

In connection with retail store business, Bradstreet's said that the volume was "fair" and perhaps equal to last year's in units, but from 10 to 30 per cent below 1929 in price value at many centers. From the broader viewpoint, Dun's saw favorable symptoms in the forward inquiry for steel and the better demand for copper.

The 3-cent break in new contract July wheat at Chicago to 62¾, the lowest since 1896, had a depressing effect on stocks and inspired late short selling. The old resistance point for new crop delivery was 63¼ cents, made in July, 1901. Weakness of foreign markets, particularly Winnipeg and Buenos Aires, and small exports from this continent, were factors in the decline. Wheat contracts closed ¾ to 2⅞ lower, with the largest loss in the July delivery, which finished only ⅛ of a cent off the bottom. Corn broke about 2 cents, but cotton lost only 4 to 11 points.

Railroad Incomes Drop.

An accumulation of railroad income statements for November showed that the percentage declines from a year ago and also from October, revealed in the early returns, were being maintained. The rail stocks were relatively inactive, but lost from 1 to 4 points.

Even the recent rally failed to interrupt the long procession of declines in brokers loans, which dropped $89,000,000 in the week ended December 24. This substantiatiated the opinion that the advance in stocks on December 17 had been a technical upturn and that weak holdings had been liquidated while the covering was in progress.

The record-breaking decline in Reserve Bank loans to brokers now amountns to $1,303,000,000 since September 24 and reduces the total outstanding volumne to $1,919,000,000, the lowest in six years. Thus the last vestiges of the big bull market, so far as this form of credit is concerned, have disappeared.

Call Loan Rate Advances.

The approach of the year-end settlements and the large interest and dividend payments falling due on January 1 was reflected in the withdrawal of about $40,000,000 from the call loan market and an advance in the rate to 2½ per cent. Federal Reserve member banks in New York increased their borrowings by $70,000,000 during the past week, largely in preparation for holiday demands.

Pressure against the share market was sufficient to send a long list of active industrials and utilities down 1 to 3 points net. These included U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can, Bethlehem Steel, General Electric, Westinghouse, North American and Consolidated Gas. In the merchandising list, R. H. Macy lost more than 6, Sears Roebuck nearly 3, Woolworth 2 and Montgomery Ward 1. Gillette and International Harvester broke 2, Auburn Auto and Allied Chemical 6 and Case 7. Southern Railway, with a loss of 4¾, was the softest rail.

Foreign exchanges were quiet and changes small. Sterling cables advanced another sixteenth to $4.85⅞.

Clearing House Reduces Interest Rates to Bankers

New York, Dec. 26 (A.P.).—The New York Clearing House today announced a further reduction in interest rates which member banks may pay on deposits, the third reduction this year. Such action had been expected, particularly since the New York Federal Reserve Bank reduced its rediscount rate from 2½ to 2 per cent. The new rates become effective tomorrow.

The rate on deposits of individuals has been reduced from 1½ to 1 per cent. The rate which member banks may pay on deposits of other banks has been reduced from 1½ to 1. The rate on time deposits, up to 6 months, is unchanged at 2 per cent, compared to 3½ as of last January. This rate was reduced on June 26.

FISCAL COMMITTEE, IGNORING SLUR, AIMS AT BASIC FACTORS

House Committee Is Eager to Make Its Report Authoritative.

COMPARATIVE TAXES WEIGHED SERIOUSLY

Conclusions on Relations With District Rule May Be Long Delayed.

Criticized as a committee "stacked" against the people of the District when appointed by Speaker Longworth, the House fiscal relations committee is going about its work with a determination that whatever its report may be, that document will reveal a judicial frame of mind and logic in its preparation.

Representative Carl E. Mapes (Republican), of Michigan, chairman of the committee, and members of his committee, especially Representative William P. Holaday (Republican), of Illinois, are anxious to avoid giving any ground for criticism that the committee approached its task with preconceptions which it intended to express in the report, despite testimony given in the hearings.

It is no secret that most of the members of the committee familiar with Washington affairs believe Washington resident pay lower taxes than persons of comparative financial standing in other cities pay. Mapes and Holaday are among these.

Beliefs Thought Unchanged.

What the report will be is problematic, but it is regarded as certain that the testimony of various persons and the report of the Bureau of Efficiency have not changed committee members' belief concerning taxes Washingtonians pay.

Difference in the amount of taxes paid by Washingtonians and people of other cities, notably Philadelphia, where graft in government is openly charged, seems to be the nub in the minds of committee members.

Despite their predisposition on the subject, assignment of the task of saying in a formal report what should be the proper basis of fiscal relations between the District and Federal governments for maintenance and development of the Capital has brought members of the committee to a point of pride that their report shall be recognized as an authoritative document.

Expert Not Yet Chosen.

This means that the report probably will not be ready much before District and Budget Bureau officials begin preparation of the estimates for the fiscal year 1933.

The committee has not yet chosen the tax expert to analyze the existing situation. An appropriation must be made by the House and this is expected to be asked for when Congress reconvenes.

German Rotarians Rely on U.S. Lead

Washington Club Gets Reply to Felicitation on New Organization.

The Washington Rotary Club received Christmas greetings yesterday from a recently organized Rotary Club at Breslau, Germany.

The German Rotarians' letter was in answer to one from the local club's head, Henry N. Brawner, offering congratulations on their organization. Referring to the United States as the most powerful Nation in the world, the president of the Breslau club hopes this country will establish an economic understanding that will put "the disorganized world right again."

The new club's president also expressed the hope that Rotary will offer opportunity for casting aside all that has tended to increase the misery now almost universal and that the work of Rotary Clubs throughout the world will "really further the one object we are striving after—world peace."

Detective Goes to Bring Check Suspect to City

Headquarters Detective Sergt. Eugene Davis, of the Police fraud squad, left for Lexington, Ky., last night to bring back to this city a man who is said to have passed more than $200 in bad checks in clothing stores, posing as an aviator attached to a local flying field.

Police say that he is being held in Kentucky under the name of Hugh L. Wilson, 31 years old, but is believed to be R. A. Stribling, who, police say, has distributed worthless checks before in this city. Davis is expected to arrive with his prisoner tomorrow afternoon.

Seventy-five persons were locked up over Christmas, according to Police Court records. Sixty were booked on intoxication charges and fifteen on traffic law violations.

D STREET LOWERING PLANS ANNOUNCED

ANOTHER PLOT BOUGHT

The lowering of D street eight feet in front of the District Supreme Court probably will be the first preliminary construction work next spring incident to the erection of the Municipal Center, it was learned yesterday after the District Commissioners had approved another purchase on the site. This was lot E, square 533, at 336 Indiana avenue, which is to be bought for $13,000 from the John A. Baker estate.

It is planned to do the grading and paving before beginning construction of the Municipal Center out of $1,500,000 included in the pending budget for the project. Estimates are being prepared so that the fund can be incorporated in the 1932 District appropriation bill.

District authorities expect to have the money placed on the "immediately available" list of appropriations, so that work can be started as soon as the bill become law. Otherwise, the fund could not be obtained until after July 1, when the new fiscal year begins.

Streets' Resurfacing Is Given Approval

Resurfacing is to be done on Pennsylvania avenue, between Sixth and Fifteenth streets; Seventh street, between G street and Massachusetts avenue, and Seventh street, from G street to Mount Vernon place. Bladensburg road will be given a concrete base in the center portion, now unpaved, and the entire roadway will be resurfaced with asphalt.

Headquarters detectives are investigating the theft of a diamond ring said to be valued at more than $10,000, which was reported stolen from the office of Rudolph Behrens, in a building at 1317 F street northwest.

Behrens, who owns the ring, yesterday told detectives that it was a 6-carat, 90-point, marquise diamond, with a platinum setting. The owner told police that it had been taken from the office some time since December 13, but could give no further information which might aid the investigators.

The 1726 I Street Corporation is the owner. The building will be of steel and concrete construction. A limestone and marble front is planned for it.

Deer Crashes Bus Bumper; Driver Gains Holiday Diet

M. M. Tate mused on the bad breaks in a man's life when he left Washington for Richmond at 11:45 o'clock Christmas morning behind the wheel of a Nevin bus.

Christmas night he strolled into his Richmond home like a hunter of yore, his back creaking under some 150 pounds of venison. That, you may be sure, is a lot of tasty calories.

Tate came by his venison honestly and unexpectedly. As he was piloting his bulky chariot along the highway near Fredericksburg a deer darted from the bordering thicket and plunged into the left front bumper.

A veterinarian, summoned from Fredericksburg, decided that the animal's life could not be saved, so Tate was allowed to kill it. The prize which he carried home lacked a quarter, which he gave to a woman passenger.

ACTION NOW URGED BY CHAMBER UPON LIGHT RATE CHANGE

FEARS HEARING MIGHT POSTPONE REVISION

The Washington Chamber of Commerce yesterday asked the Public Utilities Commission to act on the proposed 1930 rates of the Potomac Electric Power Co. in time for them to become effective January 1 regardless of what issues are to be considered at the public hearing set for next Tuesday morning.

In a letter signed by Harry King, chairman of the public utilities committee of the chamber, fear is expressed that the effect of the hearing "may be to postpone" the date when the new rates will become operative.

Chances of Early Action.

"The chamber feels that the holding of such a hearing may be necessary and desirable means of securing information for the Public Utilities Commission," the letter stated, "but we are equally of the opinion that such hearing should not cause postponement of the lower rates."

As the hearing was called at the request of Richmond B. Keech, the people's counsel, and the Federation of Citizens Associations to consider the fairness of the proposed rates and matters relative to their determination, it is not likely that the commission will grant this request unless it appears that the hearing is to be long drawn out.

Two-Day Hearing Likely.

Indications are that it will not consume more than two days. A night session may be held the first day, according to Harleigh H. Hartman, member of the commission, in order to prevent the hearing from being carried over New Year's Day.

Mr. Keech has been hard at work for the last few weeks gathering data for presentation at the hearing, and William McK. Clayton, chairman of the public utilities committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations, said yesterday he was prepared to offer his argument in behalf of lower rates for next year.

A conference was held yesterday between members of the commission and William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel for the body, on technicalities having to do with the hearing.

Liggett Chain Leases Insurance Building Area

Consummation of one of the most important leases of business property in months occurred yesterday when it was announced that the ground floor of the Peoples Life Insurance Building, at the northeast corner of Fourteenth and H streets northwest, had been leased for the Peoples Life Insurance Co. to the Lewis K. Liggett Co., operating a national chain of drug stores. The term of the lease is fifteen years. The consideration was not made public.

The Liggett company, on completion of extensive alterations, including installation of more than 80 feet of show windows, will operate a drug store on the premises. It will also occupy a portion of the basement.

Civic Federation To Expand Work

Votes to Cooperate With Two Organizations; Is Against Alleys.

The Federation of Civic Associations voted last night to cooperate with the Associated Business Club, composed of colored business men, and with the Economic Protection League, which came into existence last week. The actio nwas taken at a meeting in the District Building. Mrs. Jacqueline Cuney presided in the absence of Dr. George H. Richardson.

Cooperation with these organizations is expected to include participation in a booster campaign to be conducted during the first three months of the coming year.

Protest was voted against making undelivered parcels available only at the main postoffice, instead of at branch offices, as formerly. The Bowman bill and other measures calculated to rid the District of inhabited alleys were indorsed.

Washington Realty Man Gets Marriage License

Clarence Raymond Middleton, 58 years old, and Miss Harriet M. Chapman, 38, both of the Annapolis Hotel, obtained a marriage license in New York yesterday. Mr. Middleton, who is a Washington realty man, and his fiancee stated that they would be married at the Little Church Around the Corner in New York this month.

Mr. Middleton was born in Jersey City, N. J., the son of Samuel Albert and Sarah Higgins Middleton. This will be his second marriage, his first wife having died this year. Miss Chapman is a native of Bordentown, N. J., the daughter of Joseph and Katherine Chapman.

Fireman Loses Rubber Boots.

Police yesterday received a report from Fireman Allen R. Marshall, attached to the Twenty-first Engine Company, that he lost a pair of rubber boots while responding to a fire at Twenty-second street and Massachusetts avenue northwest, Thursday. He said the boots were the property of the District valued at $36.

Pair Wed 64 Years Candidates for Prize

Civil War Veteran Came Here With His Bride Year After Marriage.

Sixty-four years of contented married life is the boast of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen F. Hamilton, who live with their daughter, Mrs. Helen H. Radcliff, at 1905 Jackson place northeast, and are the first post-Christmas entry in The Post's wedlock contest.

The Hamiltons were married at Philadelphia, October 25, 1866, and came to Washington in the following year. Both are 88 years old. Mr. Hamilton is a veteran of the Civil War and the Spanish-American War.

He is a member of the Phil Sheridan Post, No. 6, G. A. R., and was adjutant general of the national staff of the Veterans' Union for six years. Half a century of his life has been devoted to the interests of veterans' organizations.

Coming to Washington with his bride, Mr. Hamilton went to work as a clerk in the Postmaster General's office. He escaped unscathed in the Ford Theater disaster.

He was employed as a mail clerk in the Pension Office for fourteen years, and is a retired employe of that department.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton are members of the Metropolitan Baptist Church. He was librarian of the church for 40 years, retiring from this service in 1920. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton have another daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Peach, 2928 Carlton avenue northeast.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen F. Hamilton, entered in The Post's wedlock contest. The couple has been married 64 years and each is 88 years old. Mr. Hamilton fought in the Civil and Spanish American Wars.

DisorderlyConduct Charge Sustained

Charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct, Raymond Murphy, 24 years old, of Rhode Island avenue northwest near First street, was convicted in Police Court yesterday and placed on probation for six months.

Murphy, according to Policeman C. B. McDonald, attempted to sell candlesticks, which had been taken from St. Agnes' Chapel. At first he was booked on a larceny charge, but that was dropped, the United States attorney's office said, at the request of the rector.

The other charges against the man were booked as a result of his alleged efforts to sell the candlesticks to a woman in the neighborhood.

More Land Sought For Capitol Area

Senator Predicts Extension Through Addition of Another Square.

Extension of the Capitol grounds to include the square bounded by Maryland avenue, D, First and Second streets northeast was predicted yesterday by Senator Henry W. Keyes (Republican), of New Hampshire.

The square is the site of the Methodist Building and of the proposed Methodist apartment house, for which the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals tried to have a law changed to allow construction of a building as high as the board wished.

Acquisition of the site is not authorized in existing law, but probably will be, the senator said.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ANNUAL FORECAST FOR THE NEW YEAR.

JANUARY—There will be a big post-holiday season cut in liquor prices. The news reels will be full of ski-jumpers, ice yachts and society skaters. 23,456 motorists will be arrested for forgetting to put on their 1931 plates. The harmony movement between the Democrats and Republicans in Congress will progress with a new high record for villification, fist fights and cries of "I dare you to step outside!" Chairman Legge will insist that he has the farm relief situation well in hand. The Wickersham committee will postpone its report.

FEBRUARY—There will be the usual newspaper asininities about groundhog day. Havana will stake a revolutionist demonstration for the winter tourist trade. Premier Mussolini will denounce France. Otto Kahn will announce a site for a new Metropolitan Opera House. Flo Ziegfeld will catch a sailfish off Miami. Washington will announce that business has turned the corner. The Wickersham committee will postpone its report.

MARCH—Premier Mussolini will denounce England and the United States. There will be uprisings in Spain, Brazil, Chile, Peru, India, Egypt and Union Square, N. Y. The best prospects since Ty Cobb and Hans Wagner will be discovered in eighteen winter baseball camps. Conferences on naval disarmament will open in London, Paris and Geneva. Col. Lindbergh will establish a new coast to coast record. The Wickersham committee will postpone its report.

APRIL—The harmony movement in Congress will have reached a point where it will be regarded as a serious rival of outdoor fight programs. Capt. Hawks will beat Lindbergh's coast to coast record. The Wickersham committee will come out of its hole, but will see its shadow and immediately go in again. This will be interpreted as meaning six weeks more of cool weather.

MAY—Col. Lindbergh will better Capt. Hawks' time from coast to coast. Premier Mussolini will denounce Germany, Japan and Greece. A vigorous trade revival and stock market boom will be checked by official statements from the Department of Commerce that the business outlook is excellent. Millions of golf duffers will play their usual game and blame it all on the new ball.

JUNE—The country will be stirred by a report that the Wickersham committee is about to come out of its huddle.

JULY—The report will prove premature. Premier Mussolini will denounce Russia, China, Brazil and Portugal. Babe Ruth will be two home runs behind his record. Capt. Hawks will beat Lindbergh's coast to coast record. There will be talk of enforcing the dry law.

AUGUST—The Wickersham committee will hold a meeting but postpone any report.

SEPTEMBER—See August.

OCTOBER—A bull market will be checked by an official statement by Secretary Mellon that American industry is definitely launched on the greatest revival in its history. Premier Mussolini will denounce Norway, Chile and the Argentine.

NOVEMBER—A report that the Wickersham committee has reached some definite conclusions on prohibition and crime will be officially denied.

DECEMBER—The Wickersham committee will defer its report.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

RIDGELY HUNT and George S. Chappell in "The Saloon and the Home" have resurrected the following as one of the popular temperance movement recitations for young people in the days of long ago:

WATER!

Water! Water! cries the bird,
With his singing, gentle note;
And the liquid sound is heard
Pouring from his little throat;
Water! Water! clear and sweet!
Te-weet! Te-weet!

THE Russian Soviet has prohibited all home cooking. This is the first time it has ever taken a step that will win world-wide support.

B. L. M. says that he regarded this Christmas merely as a test to see whether Santa Claus would break through last year's low.

BIARRITZ NEXT!

Monte Carlo now has a revolution on its hands. This is further indication that all the best amusement resorts are trying to make a special appeal to the trade this winter.

What's become of the old-fashioned panhandler who used to ask for 5 cents to get a kupper coffee?

MOVIE PERSONALITIES.

I

AN actor is a man whose smile
Can charm a maiden fair,
And tar-oil in his hair.

II

An actress is a maiden sweet
With manner oh, so chaste!
Who, in the pictures, seemingly
Is always being chased.

III

To rise and tear their hair.
And then they seem surprised to find
There isn't any there.

SMITH CASE FIGURES GREET MANY GUESTS AT JAIL 'RECEPTION'

One Questioned on Fitness for Admission to Reformatory.

G. Bryan Pitts, C. Elbert Anadale and John H. Edwards, jr., convicted former officres of the F. H. Smith Co., held a reception yesterday in District jail where they are maintaining their temporary residence. The occasion was the first visitors' day since their arrival a week ago yesterday.

According to jail attaches, their callers were numerous and filled the brief two hours alloted each Friday to prisoners in the grim citadel. Newspaper men were emphatically not invited.

It was learned that Edwards, who withdrew his motion for a mistrial and arrest of judgment, before Justice William Hitz Tuesday, and accepted a sentence of three years, will not go down to Lorton reformatory until next week.

During the day, Edwards was host to Capt. M. M. Barnard, superintendent of all District penal institutions, who questioned him to determine his fitness for admission to that institution. As the Lorton reformatory is not walled, no desperate or dangerous characters are accepted.

Charging that her husband ignored her throughout their Thanksgiving dinner, Mrs. Minnie Jane Walsh, of Potomac street northwest near N street, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to grant her a limited divorce and alimony from William Griffith Walsh, the American University.
